Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1
1 Diversity as a Central Challenge 1
2 Perspectives 3
3 Bargaining 4
4 Motivations for Diversity 5
5 Putting It Together: Justice as a Trajectory 5

1 Taking Diversity Seriously 7
2 Expanding the Justificatory Framework of Mill’s Experiments in Living 21
2.1 Introduction 21
2.2 Homogeneity and Stasis: Undermining Democratic Legitimacy 23
2.3 Parallels with Rawlsian Public Reason Liberalism 27
2.4 Discovery and Justification 29
2.5 Experiments in Living 30
2.6 Mill’s Solution: Genius 32
2.7 Small-Scale Experimentation 33
2.8 The Primacy of Discovery and Experimentation for Political Justification in a Changing World 35

3 The View from Everywhere 38
3.1 Introduction 38
3.2 The View from Nowhere 39
3.3 The View from Somewhere 43
3.4 The View from Everywhere 45
3.4.1 The Role of Beliefs 46
3.4.2 The Role of Perspectives 48
3.4.3 The Aggregation Procedure 53
3.5 Learning Our Limits 58
viii Contents

4 Justice without Agreement 62
   4.1 Sen's Insight 62
   4.2 What Is a Social Contract? 65
   4.3 Bargaining versus Deliberation Approaches to the Social Contract 68
   4.4 A Conception of Rights 72
   4.5 The Bargaining Model 77
      4.5.1 Multi-Perspectival Bargaining 80
   4.6 Multi-Perspectival Equality 85

5 Experiments in Distributive Justice 88
   5.1 Two Competing Images of Social Bonds 88
   5.2 Minimal Equality 92
   5.3 Creating Prosperity 96
      5.3.1 Plural Production 97
      5.3.2 Distributive Justice in a Diverse Society 102
   5.4 The Distribution of Public Goods 106
   5.5 The Limits of Diversity 109
   5.6 Experiments as Evidence for Future Revision 110

6 Dynamic Political Philosophy 115

   Works Cited 125
   Index 129