An Endogenous Theory of Property Rights

Edited by
Peter Ho
Contents

Citation Information vii
Notes on Contributors ix

Introduction: An endogenous theory of property rights: opening the black box of institutions
Peter Ho 1

1 Empty institutions, non-credibility and pastoralism: China’s grazing ban, mining and ethnicity
Peter Ho 25

2 A conditional trinity as ‘no-go’ against non-credible development?
Resettlement, customary rights and Malaysia’s Kelau Dam
Bin Md Saman Nor-Hisham and Peter Ho 57

3 Local perceptions of grassland degradation in China: a socio-anthropological reading of endogenous knowledge and institutional credibility
Heng Zhao and Karlis Rokpelnis 86

4 Are civil-law notaries rent-seeking monopolists or essential market intermediaries?
Endogenous development of a property rights institution in Mexico
Paavo Monkkonen 104

5 A history of institutional function: Mexican notaries and wealth distribution – Yucatan, 1850–1900
Juliette Levy 129

6 Rethinking labour market institutions in Indian industry: forms, functions and socio-historical contexts
Satoshi Miyamura 142
CONTENTS

7 Credibility and class in the evolution of public banks: the case of Turkey 165
   Thomas Marois and Ali Riza Güngen

8 Secure rights and non-credibility: the paradoxical dynamics of canal irrigation in India 190
   Peter P. Mollinga

Index 213