Preface

Taking the Temperature of Early Modern Studies: A Special Fiftieth Anniversary Issue of The Sixteenth Century Journal

Gary G. Gibbs
Merry Wiesner-Hanks .................................................. 7

Part 1: The Past

How has early modern scholarship, or some aspect of early modern scholarship, changed in the last fifty years?

Past and Present: My Trajectory in Early Modern Studies

Gerhild S. Williams .................................................. 19

What Has Moving into the Twenty-First Century Done to the Sixteenth Century?

Thomas Kuehn .................................................. 24

Modernity and the Early Modern: Fifty Years of Reformation Scholarship

Philipp Reisner .................................................. 29

The Deal of the Art: Art History from Renaissance to Early Modern and from Vietnam to Trump

Larry Silver .................................................. 37

The Deconfessionalization of the Reformations

Raymond A. Mentzer .................................................. 43
From Margin to Mainstream: Changes in Early Modern Netherlandish Scholarship
CHRISTINE KOOL ................................................. 49

Early Modern Scholarship: The Good New Days
BARBARA MUJICA .................................................. 55

Early Modern Violence and Religion
VITTORIA FEOLA ................................................... 62

Why Nuns Aren't Funny
ELIZABETH A. LEHFELDT ......................................... 69

Scholarship on Queen Elizabeth and Tudor Queens Over Half a Century: A Personal View
CAROLE LEVIN ...................................................... 76

Early Modern Emotions and Global Encounter as Gender History: The Dutch East India Company in Korea
SUSAN BROOMHALL ................................................ 82

Memory and Narrative: New Research Vines in Sixteenth-Century Art History
JASMIN CYRIL ........................................................ 91

The European Witch Hunt: From Mountain Credulity to Multiple Cultural Beliefs
CHARLES ZIKA ........................................................ 97

PART 2: THE PRESENT

HOW HAVE PRESENT POLITICAL ISSUES AFFECTED THE WAY YOU DO RESEARCH, AND CONVERSELY, HOW DID YOUR KNOWLEDGE OF THE PAST EMPOWER YOUR POLITICAL ACTIONS IN THE PRESENT?

Heir to Their Legacy: Early Modern Women as Catalysts for Political Action in the Twenty-First Century
ALLYSON M. POSKA .............................................. 105

Studying Early Modern Women Writers in 2018
MIHOKO SUZUKI ..................................................... 111

Against the Quieted Violence of Sixteenth-Century Art
SHIRA BRISMAN .................................................... 118

The View from the Hills: Considering the Future of Early Modern History in Trump-Era Oakland
ELIZABETH ELLIS-MARINO ...................................... 128
WHY DOES EARLY MODERN SCHOLARSHIP MATTER IN GENERAL? WHY DOES IT MATTER NOW, IN PARTICULAR, ESPECIALLY GIVEN THE CURRENT POLITICAL AND CULTURAL DISCOURSE?

The Transnational Early Modern

PRAMOD K. NAYAR ......................................................... 134

Relevance of Things Past: Contemporary Applications of Early Modern Studies

LUKE CLOSSEY ................................................................. 141

The World in the German Hinterlands: Early Modern German History Entangled

RENATE DÜRR ................................................................. 148

Early Modern Insects and Indigenous Mesoamerica

MARTHA FEW ................................................................. 156

Unpredictability and the Responsibilities of the Early Modern Historian

ERIC JOSEF CARLSON .................................................. 163

Why Early Modern Scholarship Matters

SVANTE NORRHEM ..................................................... 169

Reflecting on the European Wars of Religion in an Age of Religious Violence

BRIAN SANDBERG ......................................................... 176

Forgotten Memories: Why Should We Remember How Early Modern Europeans Remembered?

ANDREA FRISCH .............................................................. 183

Intermediaries: Lessons from the Provinces in Early Modern Europe in an Era of Resurgent Nationalism

JAMES TRACY ................................................................. 189

The Uses of the Past: Political Culture in Early Modern Russia and the Problems of the Present

RUSSELL E. MARTIN ..................................................... 196

The Early Modern European Past and the Contemporary American Present

BRAD S. GREGORY .......................................................... 205

Thinking with the Early Modern Past: The Relevance of Our Scholarship

CORY D. DAVIS AND DAVID Y. NEUFELD .......................... 212

Our Literal Speed

OUR LITERAL SPEED ...................................................... 219

Does the Early Modern Still Matter? Narratives of Decline and Early Modern(ist) Voices

NICHOLAS TERPSTRA ..................................................... 226
From Mermaids to Menocchio: Truths and Divergence in Politically Tempestuous Times
   LAURA J. MITCHELL .................................................. 231
What Would Galileo Think of Ted Cruz? Reflections on Epistemic Crisis and Early Modern Scholarship
   MATTHEW JAMES CRAWFORD ........................................... 238
   ULRIKE STRASSER .......................................................... 245
   JANIS M. GIBBS ............................................................. 252
Early Modern Feminism in the Twenty-First Century (Classroom)
   MEREDITH K. RAY .......................................................... 257
Early Modern Scholarship in a Postmodern Climate: The Relevance of Early Modern Scholarship in a Jewish Political, Cultural, and Communal Context
   DEAN PHILLIP BELL ....................................................... 265
Early Modern Theoretical Futures
   TODD W. REESER .......................................................... 272

PART 3: THE FUTURE

HOW DOES/SHOULD THE PROFESSION TRAIN GRADUATE STUDENTS IN A CULTURE THAT IS OCCASIONALLY/FREQUENTLY SUSPICIOUS OF ACADEMIC TRAINING AND INTELLECTUAL PROOFS, AND IN WHICH THE JOB MARKET IS SO UNCERTAIN? IS THERE SOMETHING THAT EARLY MODERNISTS IN PARTICULAR CAN ADD TO THESE DISCUSSIONS?

Beginning Scholars for the Future
   SUSAN C. KARANT-NUNN ................................................ 279
The Best of Times, the Worst of Times: Notes from a Former DGS
   MURIEL C. MCCLENDON .................................................. 286
   ELISABETH WÅGHÅLL NIVRE .............................................. 295
How are new technologies providing early modernists new opportunities for conducting better research, better pedagogies, and more global discourse?

Teaching Teachers Early Modern History in an Online Master's Program

Eric Nelson ......................................................... 302

Updating Shakespeare: Reflections on the Possibilities of Reading and Teaching Shakespeare Today

Gül Kurtulus ......................................................... 307

Technology and the Humanities in Early Modern Studies

Hannibal Hamlin .................................................... 314

New Technologies and the Practice of Early Modern Global History: Studying Connection in a Connected World

Adam Clulow ......................................................... 321

The Future of the Past: Technology and the Study of Early Modernity

Colin Rose .......................................................... 329

Early Modern Scholarship in the Age of the Smartphone

Jon Balserak ........................................................ 336

If early modern scholarship is to be healthy in fifty years, what are the most important things that we as scholars and teachers can/should do?

We Have Been Early Modern for a While

Helmut Puff .......................................................... 344

The Future of Early Modern Studies: Embracing the Impact and Public Engagement Agenda

James Daybell ....................................................... 351

A Half-Century Retrospect: The View from 2069

Alec Ryrie .......................................................... 361