

EUROPEAN PAINTINGS 15TH–18TH CENTURY

Copying, Replicating and Emulating

CATS Proceedings, I, 2012

Edited by Erma Hermens

 Archetype Publications
www.archetype.co.uk

in association with

CATS
Centre for Art Technological Studies and Conservation

CONTENTS

Foreword	vii
Pieter Brueghel as a copyist after Pieter Bruegel Christina Currie and Dominique Allart	1
Copies of prototypes by Quentin Massys from the workshop of his son Jan: the case of the Butter Madonna Maria Clelia Galassi	12
An unpublished copy of Hieronymus Bosch's Temptation of Saint Anthony Catheline Périer-D'Ieteren	20
Emulating van Eyck: the significance of grisaille Noëlle L.W. Streeton	29
Two versions of a Boutsian Virgin and Child painting: questions of attribution, chronology and function Eva de la Fuente Pedersen and Troels Filtenborg	36
Copies and versions: discussing Holbein's legacy in England. Technical examination of copies of Holbein portraits at the National Portrait Gallery Sophie Plender and Polly Saltmarsh	50
A technical study of portraits of King James VI and I attributed to John de Critz the Elder (d.1642): artist, workshop and copies Caroline Rae and Aviva Burnstock	58
Michiel van Mierevelt, copy master: exploring the oeuvre of the Van Mierevelt workshop Anita Jansen and Johanneke Verhave	67
The Assumption of the Virgin by the studio of Peter Paul Rubens from the National Gallery of Art in Washington: between master's piece and student's copy Julia Burdajewicz	76
The problem of the portrait copies painted by Rubens in Madrid, 1628–29 Jeremy Wood	87
After Raphael: the Hunterian Entombment copy examined in the context of copying practices in early 17th-century Rome Peter Black, Erma Hermens and Helen Howard	95
Materials as markers: how useful are distinctive materials as indicators of master or copyist? Libby Sheldon and Gabriella Macaro	105
Joseph Booth's chymical and mechanical paintings David Saunders	113
The Strawberry Girl : repetition in Reynolds's studio practice Alexandra Gent, Rachel Morrison and Rica Jones	122