Performing the analysis using computer software p. 66
Interpreting the output p. 67
Model validation p. 69
An example of multiple regression from the literature p. 70
Multivariate regression p. 71
Summary p. 72
Logistic regression p. 73
Essential features of logistic regression p. 73
Worked example of logistic regression p. 75
Two examples of logistic regression from the psychological literature p. 78
Summary p. 80
Structural equation modelling p. 81
Terminology p. 82
Basic concepts in structural equation modelling p. 83
Example from the literature of a study using EQS p. 88
Example from the literature of a study using path analysis p. 90
Problems with structural equation modelling p. 93
Alternatives to structural equation modelling p. 94
Summary p. 96
Questionnaires and scales p. 99
Survey design p. 99
Scale design and construction p. 103
Varieties of tests, scales and questionnaires p. 103
Constructing a scale p. 107
Creating an item pool p. 107
Example of a test specification p. 107
Writing items p. 109
Poor questionnaire/scale items p. 109
Organisation and layout of questionnaire p. 111
Piloting and item analysis p. 113
Measures of reliability and validity p. 115
An example from the literature p. 117
Summary p. 119
Factor analysis p. 121
Exploratory factor analysis p. 122
Steps in principal components analysis p. 122
Other forms of exploratory factor analysis p. 125
Factor selection p. 126
Factor rotation p. 128
Different types of rotation p. 129
Analytical techniques p. 188
Two examples of discourse analysis from the psychological literature p. 192
Some debates in discourse analysis p. 194
Relation between discourse analysis and grounded theory p. 197
Summary p. 197
Other qualitative approaches p. 198
Qualitative content analysis p. 198
Conversation analysis p. 200
Ethnography p. 203
Locating the field p. 205
Data collection p. 206
An example of ethnographic research with relevance to psychology p. 207
Idiographic approaches p. 208
Interpretative phenomenological analysis p. 209
Narrative psychology p. 209
Broad approaches p. 210
Action research p. 210
Feminist research p. 212
Summary p. 213
Reporting and evaluating qualitative research p. 214
Writing the qualitative report p. 215
Criteria for evaluating qualitative research p. 218
Summary p. 223
Other approaches p. 225
Content analysis and log-linear models p. 227
Content analysis p. 227
An example of content analysis from the psychological literature p. 228
Log-linear analysis p. 229
Underlying principles p. 229
Other issues in log-linear analysis p. 233
Two examples using log-linear analysis from the psychological literature p. 234
Summary p. 237
Q methodology p. 238
Q methodology: the basic idea p. 238
The Q-sort: a worked example p. 239
The European 'dialect' of Q methodology p. 242
