About the Authors p. xxvii
Preliminary Considerations p. 1
The Selection of a Research Approach p. 3
Learning Objectives p. 3
Introducing Key Terms in this Chapter p. 3
Three Approaches or Methodologies in Research p. 4
Three Major Components of a Research Approach p. 6
Philosophical Worldviews p. 6
The Postpositivist Worldview p. 7
The Construciivist Worldview p. 9
The Transformative Worldview p. 10
The Pragmatic Worldview p. 11
Research Designs p. 13
Quantitative Designs p. 13
Qualitative Designs p. 14
Mixed Methods Designs p. 15
Research Methods p. 17
Interconnecting Worldviews, Designs, and Methods p. 18
Criteria for Selecting a Research Approach p. 20
The Research Problem and Questions p. 20
Personal Experiences p. 21
Audience p. 22
Summary p. 22
Key Terms p. 22
Writing Exercises p. 23
Additional Readings p. 23
Review of the Literature p. 25

Key Terms p. 48
Writing Exercises p. 48
Additional Readings p. 49
The Use of Theory p. 51
Learning Objectives p. 51
Introduction p. 51
The Varied Use of Theory p. 52
Quantitative Theory Use p. 53
Definition of a Theory in Quantitative Research p. 53
Variables in Quantitative Research p. 54
Testing Causal Claims in Quantitative Research p. 56
Stating Theories in Quantitative Research p. 57
Placement of Quantitative Theories p. 60
Writing a Quantitative
Theoretical Perspective p. 60
A Quantitative Theory Section p. 63
Qualitative Theory Use p. 64
Variation in Theory Use in Qualitative Research p. 65
Locating the Theory in Qualitative Research p. 68
A Theory Early in a Qualitative Study p. 68
Theory at the End of a Qualitative Study p. 69

Mixed Methods Theory Use p. 69
Types of Mixed Methods Theory Use p. 69
Importance of a Theory p. 71
Distinctions Between a Theory and a Worldview p. 72
A Theoretically Driven Mixed Methods Study p. 72
What Theory Informs p. 73
A Discipline-Based Theory in a Mixed Methods Study p. 74

The Introduction p. 107
Learning Objectives p. 107
Introduction to a Study p. 107
The Importance of Introductions p. 108
An Abstract for a Study p. 109
Qualitative, Quantitative, and Mixed Methods Introductions p. 110
A Model for an Introduction p. 111
An Illustration of an Introduction p. 112
The Research Problem p. 112
Evidence From the Literature Justifying the Problem p. 115
Deficiencies in the Evidence p. 117
Deficiencies in the Literature-Needed Studies p. 117
Deficiencies in the Literature-Few Studies p. 118
Importance of the Problem for Audiences p. 118
Significance of the Study Stated in an Introduction to a Quantitative Study p. 119
Summary p. 119
Key Terms p. 119
Writing Exercises p. 120
Additional Readings p. 120
The Purpose Statement p. 123
Learning Objectives p. 123
Introduction p. 123
Significance of a Purpose (or Study Aim) Statement p. 124
A Qualitative Purpose Statement p. 125
A Purpose Statement in a Qualitative Phenomenology Study p. 127
A Purpose Statement in a Qualitative Case Study p. 128
A Purpose Statement in a Narrative Study p. 129
A Purpose Statement in a Grounded Theory Study p. 129
A Quantitative Purpose Statement p. 130
A Purpose Statement in a Survey Study p. 132
A Purpose Statement in a Dissertation Survey Study p. 132
A Purpose Statement in an Experimental Study p. 133
A Mixed Methods Purpose Statement p. 134
