

Chilling Out

The cultural politics of substance consumption,
youth and drug policy

Shane Blackman

Contents

Foreword: Professor David Downes	ix
Acknowledgements	xii
Introduction	1
1 DRUG PROHIBITION AND THE 'ASSASSIN OF YOUTH'	7
The legitimate colonial drug trade	8
Emergent moral movement of prohibition	9
Modern American drug prevention	11
Anslinger and the 'assassin of youth'	14
Drug control and the British military state	19
British media representation of drugs as the 'assassin of youth'	21
The 'British System' of drug control, 1920 to 1968	22
Drug 'hypnotism' and insanity	24
American idealization of the 'British System'	26
Conclusion	27
2 PLEASURE DOOMED: A HISTORY OF DRUG CONTROL POLICY	28
US Paperclip Project	29
The truth drug and the CIA	31
Drugs as a political and military strategy	35
US militarization of the 'drug war'	39
American drug hegemony	41
Drug prohibition policy and fascism	45
Global prohibition	47
Conclusion	51
3 DRUGS AS CULTURAL COMMODITIES: AN ANALYSIS OF DRUGS IN FILM, ADVERTISEMENTS AND POPULAR MUSIC	52
Drugs in cinema	52
Advertisements and drugs	69
Popular music and drugs	81
4 YOUTH SUBCULTURAL THEORY: DEVIANCE, RESISTANCE, IDENTITY AND DRUGS	104
Subculture: introduction to a chameleon theory	104
Normality and deviance: the Chicago school and Emile Durkheim	105
Creation of the deviant outsider: functionalist subcultural typologies	106
The British theory of subculture	109

Postmodern theories of subculture	115
Conclusion	125
5 DRUG NORMALIZATION: A HISTORICAL AND CONTEMPORARY CRITIQUE	127
Ancient society and drug normalization	128
The Classical Age, Homer and drugs	129
Victorian academics and the representation of drugs	132
Drug normalization in nineteenth-century Britain	135
Contemporary drug normalization	137
Media populism and drug normalization	139
Drug normalization as a discourse of regulation	142
Drug normalization and postmodernist theory	144
Conclusion	147
6 SCHOOLING AND SUBSTANCES: A CRITICAL APPROACH TO DRUG EDUCATION	148
British government drug policy: increased concern	148
Drug education approaches	150
Social and life skills	152
Drug education or prevention – towards the new managerialism?	155
Behaviour change, choice and outcomes	157
Drug education: models, media and ‘monsters’	159
The ‘gateway’ metaphor of drug consumption	161
Peer education and peer preference	163
Drug education as primary prevention: PSHE, citizenship and Connexions	166
Conclusion	168
7 BRITISH DRUG REFORM: TOWARDS RESPONSIVE PROHIBITION?	169
The political right, drug zero tolerance and the free market	169
Public gallery of dead young women	170
Drug tourism and global clubbing	174
The Dutch coffeeshop: drug trafficking or drug tourism?	176
The context of British drug reform	177
Medical cannabis: from miracle panacea to hideous social pariah and back	178
Cannabis self-medication and commercial opportunities	180
‘Relaxation’ and the British coffeeshop	182
European drug normalization	183
John Stuart Mill’s responsive prohibition	185
Conclusion	187
Notes	188
Bibliography	201
Index	224