Victorian Literature and the Victorian Visual Imagination

Edited by Carol T. Christ and John O. Jordan

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PRESS

Berkeley / Los Angeles / London
Contents

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS ix

CONTRIBUTORS xv

CAROL T. CHRIST AND JOHN O. JORDAN

Introduction xix

SUSAN R. HORTON

Were They Having Fun Yet?
Victorian Optical Gadgetry, Modernist Selves 1

GERARD CURTIS

Shared Lines: Pen and Pencil as Trace 27

JUDITH L. FISHER

Image versus Text in the Illustrated Novels of William Makepeace Thackeray 60

JENNIFER M. GREEN

“The Right Thing in the Right Place”:
P. H. Emerson and the Picturesque Photograph 88
ELLEN HANDY

Dust Piles and Damp Pavements: Excrement, Repression, and the Victorian City in Photography and Literature 111

RONALD R. THOMAS

Making Darkness Visible: Capturing the Criminal and Observing the Law in Victorian Photography and Detective Fiction 134

MARGARET HOMANS

Victoria's Sovereign Obedience: Portraits of the Queen as Wife and Mother 169

LINDA M. SHIRES

The Author as Spectacle and Commodity: Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Thomas Hardy 198

JAMES ELI ADAMS

The Hero as Spectacle: Carlyle and the Persistence of Dandyism 213

RICHARD L. STEIN

Street Figures: Victorian Urban Iconography 233

SUSAN P. CASTERAS

Seeing the Unseen: Pictorial Problematics and Victorian Images of Class, Poverty, and Urban Life 264

ROBERT M. POLHEMUS

John Millais's Children: Faith and Erotics: The Woodman's Daughter (1851) 289

MIRIAM BAILIN

Seeing Is Believing in Enoch Arden 313
AUDREY JAFFE

Spectacular Sympathy: Visuality and Ideology in Dickens’s A Christmas Carol 327

GARRETT STEWART

Reading Figures: The Legible Image of Victorian Textuality 345

INDEX 369