

READING
AND UNDERSTANDING
RESEARCH

Lawrence F. Locke

Stephen J. Silverman

Waneen Wyrick Spirduso

SAGE Publications

International Educational and Professional Publisher

Thousand Oaks London New Delhi

Contents

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xv
1. Introduction: Why This Book?	1
Problems With Reports	3
Problems With Research	4
Summary	7
2. The Research Report	9
Finding Valuables in Research Reports	9
Reading Reports: When to Do It	9
Reading Research: When Not to Do It	10
Reading Research: What Can You Find Besides Findings?	13
What Is a Research Report?	21
Research Reports: A Middle-Ground Definition	22
What Fits Under the Umbrella?	23
About Publications	23
Critical Characteristics: What Has to Be in a Report?	24
About the Genuine Article	26
3. When to Believe What You Read: The Sources of Credibility	28
Who Does Research and Where Do They Do It?	29
Who Does Research?	31
Where Do Researchers Do Their Work?	32
Believing What You Read in Research: The Foundations of Trust	37

The Review Process for Presenting and Publishing Research	37
Journal Selectivity	40
Reputation of the Author(s)	42
Source of Funding	43
Sponsorship by a Research or Professional Organization	43
Reasons to Suspend Trust in Research	44
Technical Problems	45
Sampling	47
Lack of Replication	49
Conflicts	50
Carelessness	51
Errors and Poor Scholarship	52
Summary	53
Can Any Research Report Be Perfect?	54
4. How to Select and Read Research Reports	56
Getting Started: Selecting Research Reports	56
Looking for the Right Read	56
Reading Research Cooperatively	59
How to Read Research Reports	60
Researchers as Writers: Style and Substance	61
Researchers as Workers: The Matter of Respect	62
The Reader as Consumer: Burdens to Leave Behind	63
Reading Research as Puzzle Solving	65
Communication in Reports: It Takes Two to Tango	66
Graphic Tools: Most Travelers Need a Map	66
On Getting Hung Up: Don't Get Stuck on the Wrong Things	68
The Limits of Respect: Healthy Skepticism	72
5. Staying Organized: Studying and Recording
What You Read	74
12 Steps to Understanding a Quantitative Research Report	74
Doing the 12-Step	78
Reading and Recording From Qualitative Research Reports	90
Identifying Qualitative Research Reports	91
A 12-Step Guide for Understanding Qualitative Research Reports	93
Reading and Recording From Research Reviews	101
A 12-Step Map for Reading Reviews	102

Navigating Through Reviews With Your 12-Step Map	106
Explaining Research: A Tool for Learning How to Read Reports	106
Teaching Is the Best Way to Learn	107
How to Give an Explanation: Rules of the Game	108
Formats for the Explanation: Pairs, Teams, and Solos	109
How to Give an Explanation: Handy Hints From Hard Experience	111
The Bad Explanation: Five Fatal Flaws	112
The Purpose of Explaining	113
6. Types of Research: An Overview	115
Generic Issues in Research	116
Types of Research	121
Quantitative Research	123
Qualitative Research	139
Concluding Comments About Types of Research	144
7. Reading Critically: Things to Notice and Questions to Ask	146
The Five Basic Questions	148
What Is the Report About?	149
How Does the Study Fit Into What Is Already Known?	156
How Was the Study Done?	161
What Was Found?	172
What Do the Results Mean?	188
Concluding Remarks	191
Appendix A: Annotated Bibliography of Supplementary References	193
Appendix B: Examples of Completed 12-Step Forms, Flowcharts, and Explanation Scripts	201
Appendix C: Questions to Ask When Critically Evaluating a Research Report	215
Appendix D: Statistics: A Beginner's Guide	221
References	233
Index	235
About the Authors	239