THE GREAT LABOR SCHISM
A RETROSPECTIVE

edited by BRIAN COSTAR, PETER LOVE & PAUL STRANGIO

Scribe Publications Melbourne
Contents

Preface
1 The Great Labor Split of 1955: an overview
PETER LOVE

PART I: The Split at State Level

2 The Split: a Victorian phenomenon
PAUL STRANGIO

3 The Split in the Branches: Hunters Hill, NSW
RODNEY CAVALIER

4 ‘For the Love of Christ, Mick, Don’t Hit Him’: the Split in Queensland
BRIAN COSTAR

5 Remembering the Past and Hoping for the Future: why there was no Split in South Australia in 1954–56
MALCOLM SAUNDERS & NEIL LLOYD

PART II: Prelude and Protagonists

6 Frank Hardy’s Power Without Glory: prelude to the Split
JENNY HOCKING

7 ‘An Italian with a Goat on Five Acres’
ANTHONY CAPPELLO

8 Professor Crisp and the Attempted anti-Evatt Putsch of April 1955
STEPHEN HOLT

9 The Melbourne Trades Hall and the Split
CATHY BRIGDEN

10 The Eye of the Storm: mainstream press representations of Dr. Evatt and the Split
GREG GARDINER
PART III: Religiosity and the Split

11 Living with Hope and Fear: advancing Catholic social ideals amid the spectre of communism
PETER HAEUSLER 181

12 B.A. Santamaria: Religion as Politics
PAUL STRANGIO & BRIAN COSTAR 201

13 The Puzzle of Santamaria's Politicisation of Catholic Movements
BRUCE DUNCAN 220

PART IV: Aftermath

14 Fudging the Figures: the Split in the polls, 1955–1975
MURRAY GOOT 235

15 The Liberal Party's Response to the Split
JOHN ROSKAM 260

16 Faith of our Fathers: the fate of the expelled
TIM HAYES 277

17 The Democratic Labor Party: a retrospective
PAUL REYNOLDS 291

18 Was the DLP a 'church' Party?
JOHN WARHURST 301

19 Was the DLP a Labor or a Centrist Party?
BRIAN COSTAR 311

20 Remembering Ol '55: the Victorian Fabian Society and the road to intervention
FRANK BONGIORNO 324

21 Closing the Split? before and after federal intervention in the Victorian ALP
PAUL STRANGIO 340

Notes on Contributors 367

Index 369