Contents

List of Illustrations xi
Series Editors' Preface xiii
Preface xv
Acknowledgments xvii
Introduction 1

One

Illinois and the Politics of Slavery 8

A Fugitive Slave Is Seized in Alton 14
Mary Richardson Jones Recalls John Brown and the Underground Railroad 15
The 1853 Black Exclusion Law 17
The Address of the Colored State Convention 18
Ichabod Codd ing Replies to Douglas 20
Practical Abolitionism and Its Tendencies 21
Chicago's Ferment: The 1855 Lager Beer Riot 23
The Illinois American Party Platform 26
"The political atmosphere is such . . . that I fear to do anything" 28
The 1856 Anti-Nebraska State Convention 30
The Rise of Chicago 32

Two

The Emergence of Lincoln and the Secession Crisis 34

Slavery Blights the White Man 38
A House Divided 39
The Lincoln-Douglas Debates 40
Illinois Reacts to John Brown 46
The Ottawa Rescue Case 47
The 1860 National Republican Convention 49
Richard Yates Defines Republican Principles 50
Illinois Responds to Secession 52
Egypt Calls for Separate Statehood 54
Three

Improvising War  56

“War is now begun”  61
“There can be none but patriots and traitors”  62
The War Spirit in Chicago  64
Gustave Koerner Describes Mobilization and Preparedness  67
“We have before us . . . a serious struggle”  69
The Ambiguities of Unionism  71
Organizing the Chicago Sanitary Commission  73
Jane Hoge on Women’s War Efforts  76
The Politics of Opposition: The 1862 Constitutional Convention  78

Four

Illinois and Emancipation  80

Lincoln Opposes General Frémont’s Emancipation Order  83
The Odyssey of Andrew Smith, Runaway Slave  85
“The conservative policy has utterly failed”  88
“Too much protection has been given to rebel property”  90
The Emancipation Memorial  91
The Cairo Contrabands  93
“There is a danger in the election here”  94
Illinois Reacts to the Emancipation Proclamation  96
H. Ford Douglas and the Meaning of Freedom  98

Five

Divided Houses  101

The Peace Resolutions  104
Illinois Soldiers Write to Their Newspapers  107
Joseph Medill Warns of Resistance to the Draft  110
Governor Yates Prorogues the State Legislature  112
Arming the Resistance  113
Divided Neighborhoods  116
Mary Logan Defends a Contraband  118
Of Promises Made and Promises Kept—The Conkling Letter  120
Six
The Soldiers' War 124

“Your son is a soldier in America” 127
Colonel Ulysses S. Grant Describes His First March into Battle 129
“Now we began to realize the horrors of war” 130
General Pope Orders Hard Measures 133
“The troops are becoming very much disheartened” 136
“I think there is reason to hope for better times” 140
George Carrington Witnesses the Fall of Vicksburg 142
“Equality we are fighting for” 145
The Twenty-Ninth U.S. Colored Infantry 146
James Austin Connolly’s March to the Sea 148

Seven
Hearts and Minds in the Days of Total War 153

Dear Husband 156
Another Civil War 160
City Improvements 164
The Northwest Sanitary Fair 165
The Charleston Copperhead Riot 167
“Every thing seems to be going against us” 170
Reelecting Lincoln 171
The Chicago Trades Assembly Announces Its Political Goals 173

Eight
In the Shadows of War 175

Repealing the Black Laws 181
John Wentworth Waves the Bloody Shirt 184
“There is almost no such thing as loyalty here” 185
Senator Trumbull Defends Congressional Reconstruction 187
Resolutions of the Galesburg State Convention 190
Seven Years among the Freedmen 192
Congressman McNeely Opposes the Freedmen’s Bureau 194
The Illinois Woman Suffrage Association 196
The Great Fire and the Boundaries of Charity 198
Farmers and Railroads 200
Cities of the Dead 201
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Contents</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Timeline</td>
<td>205</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Discussion Questions</td>
<td>219</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Notes</td>
<td>223</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Selected Bibliography</td>
<td>227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Index</td>
<td>235</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>