

Foreword by Donald D. Hook, ix
Author's Preface, xi
Introduction, xiii

I

Jews Establish Themselves in German Literary Life

- Mendelssohn: Figure at the Gate, 3
 The Disciples, 8
Belletristic Beginnings in German, 11
 The Salons, 16
 Heinrich Heine, 21
 Ludwig Börne, 30
 Minor Contemporaries, 34
Assimilationists and Patient Explainers, 40
 Narrators of Ghetto Life, 50
 Writers of Historical Fiction, 59
 Pre-Zionists, 63

II

Attraction and Repulsion: Jews Determine Their Function

- Writers of Humor and Comedy, 71
 Attraction to Modernity, 79
 Self-deprecators, 88
 Self-haters, 94

III

The War and Its Aftermath: New Functions and Pressures

- Nationalists, 105
- Expressionists, 108
- Socialists, 120
- The George Circle, 130
- Editors and Critics, 136
- Women Writers, 143
- Uneasy Assimilators, 150
- Voices from Vienna, 160
- Prague Writers, 181

IV

Gathering Clouds: Jews Exit from German Life

- The Beginning of the End, 199
- Apostates, 201
- New Masters in Historical Fiction, 212
- Socialists Revisited, 222
- Assorted Writers, 234
- Plaintive Sounds from Vienna, 245
- Exit: Minor Writers, 255
- The Empty House, 257

V

Postscript, 261

- Bibliography A. Political and Social Works, 271
- Bibliography B. Cultural and Literary Works, 272
- Bibliography C. Works by and about Authors of Special Interest, 276
- Indexes, 313