

Contents

I. INTRODUCTION

1. Empirical, Conceptual, and Philosophical Bases of MST 3
  - Antisocial Behavior in Youth: Correlates and Costs / 3
  - Theoretical Basis of MST / 11
  - The “Fit” of MST with Values Guiding Policy and Service System Change / 17
  - Consumer Advocacy: The Federation of Families for Children’s Mental Health as an Example / 19

2. Clinical Foundations of MST: Nine Treatment Principles, Home-Based Model of Service Delivery, and Guidelines for Clinical Supervision 21
  - MST Treatment Principles / 21
  - Providing MST via the Home-Based Model of Service Delivery / 43
  - MST Clinical Supervision / 45
  - Conclusion / 56

II. CLINICAL PROCEDURES

3. Assessment of Family Functioning 61
  - Effective Family Functioning / 62
  - Assessing Family Functioning / 70

4. Family Interventions 87
  - Changing Parenting Practices / 89

Marital Interventions / 109

Enhancing Effective Functioning during and after Family
Transitions / 117

5. Changing Relations with Peers 125
 Peer Relations and Development / 125
 Linkages between Family Processes and Peer Relations / 127
 Assessment / 128
 Interventions / 131
6. Promoting Academic and Social Competence in School Settings 144
 The Developmental Significance of the School Setting / 145
 Factors Linked with Children's Competence in School / 146
 Assessment / 148
 Implementing School-Related Interventions / 155
 Barriers: High Family-School Conflict / 167
 Case Illustration / 169
7. When and How to Conduct Individually Oriented Interventions 172
 Cognitive-Behavioral Therapies / 174
 Individual Interventions with Parental Figures / 175
 Individual Interventions with Youth / 194
8. Family Linkages with Community Supports 208
 Role of Social Supports in a Healthy Family Environment / 209
 Assessment of Informal and Formal Family-Community Linkages and the Factors Influencing Those Linkages / 213
 Linking Families with Social Supports / 217
 Addressing Barriers to the Development of Social Supports / 221
 Conclusion / 233

III. OUTCOMES AND POLICY

9. Outcomes of MST: Findings from Controlled Evaluations 237
 Completed and Near-Completed Outcome Studies / 238
 Outcome Studies That Are in Progress / 247
 Cost Savings and Cost-Effectiveness / 252
 Future Directions for MST Outcome Research / 254

Epilogue: Policy Implications of the Effectiveness of MST	258
Increase Family- and Community-Based Services, Decrease Residential and Institutional Services / 259
Accountability of Service Providers / 260
The Training of Mental Health Professionals / 262
A Proposed Solution to the Funding-, Accountability-, and Training-Related Barriers / 263
References	265
Index	281