

Contents

List of Figures and Tables	vii
Notes on Authors	xi
Preface and Acknowledgements	xiii
List of Abbreviations	xv
Introduction	1
1 Risk and Modernity: Theories and Concepts	7
2 Russia's Risk Society	43
3 Coming of Age in Different Risk Societies	67
4 Youth Conflict in a Risk Society	93
5 Resolving Youth Conflict: The Localisation and Globalisation of Risk	109
6 Risk Trends in the Life Situation of Young People	127
7 Conclusion: Reflections on Youth at the Start of the Twenty-first Century	201
Bibliography	207
Index	225

List of Figures and Tables

Figures

5.1	Models of youth conflict resolution under conditions of the reproduction of risk	110
-----	--	-----

Tables

1.1	Typology of risk, according to Waldavsky and Dake	19
1.2	Classical versus reflexive modernisation	25
1.3	Shift from pre and simple to reflexive modernity	34
1.4	Aspects of Russian modernity	35
2.1	Economic trends in Russia, 1991–2001	49
2.2	Russian population in 1998 according to income levels	50
2.3	Health status in the Russian Federation, 1991–2000	52
2.4	Comparative measures of ‘freedom’ in various countries in the New Europe, 2000	54
2.5	Results of the December 1999 Russian Duma elections	57
2.6	Outcome of March 2000 Presidential election in Russia	58
3.1	Youth in different risk societies, 2000	68
3.2	Young people’s chances of improving their qualifications and wages in Russia (on a 7 point scale), 1990–1999	81
3.3	Work orientation of Russian youth (as percent of sample), 1990–1999	83
3.4	Young people’s monthly wages in Russia (in roubles), 1999	84
3.5	Changes in the level of income and expenditure amongst Russian youth (as percent of sample), 1997–1999	85
3.6	Degree of inter-generational mobility in Russia (as percent of group), 1997–1999	87
3.7	Ranking of different types of leisure activity amongst Russian youth (on a 7 point scale), 1990–1999	88
3.8	Personal evaluation of degree of self-realisation among Russian youth (on a 7 point scale), 1999	89
4.1	Types of risk experienced by young people living in various risk societies	105

5.1	Comparison of youth integration characteristics in different types of societies	113
6.1	Population trends in Russia, 1990–2001	128
6.2	Marriage and divorce trends in the Russian Federation, 1991–2000	129
6.3	Changes in the size of the youth cohort in Russia according to age (in percent), 1989–2000	130
6.4	Morbidity trends among Russian teenagers (cases per 100,000), 1991–1996	131
6.5	Mortality trends among Russian youth by age-group (in percent), 1990–1996	132
6.6	Learning to work in various OECD countries, 1996	136
6.7	Proportion of youth giving up school, 1996	138
6.8	Level of education of young people in Russia aged 15–18 years according to gender (as percent of gender group), 1999	140
6.9	Type of activity undertaken by young people in Russia aged 15–18 years according to gender (as percent of group), 1999	141
6.10	Type of activity undertaken by young people in Russia aged 15–18 years according to gender (as percent of group), 1990	141
6.11	Young people in Europe living alone (in percent), 1995	144
6.12	Changes in interests of young people in Russia (as percent of group aged 15–18 years), 1990–1999	146
6.13	Correlation between the main indicators of youth life start and social differences (by rank), Russia, 1990–1999	148
6.14	Impact of mother and father's education, material well-being and area of residence on young people's activity (as percent of group)	149
6.15	Risk coping strategies among youth	151
6.16	Youth unemployment among 15–24 year olds according to country (in percent), 1979–1997	155
6.17	Youth unemployment coverage in Europe, 1998	157
6.18	Youth unemployment in Russia (in percent), 1992–1999	158
6.19	Changes in the educational level of young people in different occupational groups in Russia (as percent of each group), 1997–1999	161
6.20	Socio-occupational status of youth according to job in different branches of the Russian economy (according to individually specified scales and by average weighting), 1997–1999	162
6.21	Changes in the degree of prestige attached to their work amongst different youth occupational groups in Russia (as percent of each group), 1994–1997	163
6.22	Comparison of young people's possibility to improve their salary, qualification and promotion prospects according to occupation (Mean on 7 point scale), Russia, 1994–1999	164
6.23	Correlation between youth life situations and their estimations of the opportunities for self-realisation (Mean on 7 point scale), Russia, 1999	165

6.24	Correlation between youth orientations towards stability/risk and their estimations of the opportunities for self-realisation (Mean on 7 point scale), Russia, 1999	166
6.25	Voting by Russian youth in the December 1999 parliamentary elections (in percent)	168
6.26	Level of trust and distrust in different institutions and organisations among Russian youth (as percent of sample), 1997–1999	169
6.27	Youth opportunities for self-realisation depending upon social and economic backgrounds, Russia, 1999	170
6.28	Comparison of youth opportunities for self-realisation depending upon ethnic status (Mean on 7 point scale), Russia, 1999	171
6.29	Youth views of the situation in Russia and their place in it (answers as percent of sample), 1997–1999	174
6.30	Young people's value orientations according to the degree of stability or uncertainty in Russia (as percent of group), 1999	174
6.31	Comparison of the cultural values of young people in Russia at times of stability or uncertainty (average weighting on 7 point scale), 1999	176
6.32	Changes in the cultural values of young people in Russia at times of stability or uncertainty (average weighting on 7 point scale), 1999	177
6.33	Self-estimations of personal characteristics of young people in Russia at times of stability or uncertainty (average weighting on a 7 point scale), 1999	178
6.34	Comparison of the proportion of young people preferring reliability and calm to change and risk in Russia (as percent of sample), 1990–1999	179
6.35	Attitude of Russian youth towards those making money at any price (answers as percent of sample), 1997	183
6.36	Attitude of Russian youth towards those breaking the law (answers as percent of sample), 1997	184
6.37	Correlation between identity indicators and young people's perceptions of their own life situation (Mean on 7 point scale), Russia, 1999	185
6.38	Young people's attitudes towards the 're-writing' of history (answers in percent), Russia, 1999	185
6.39	Correlation between identity indicators and key values in different spheres of young people's lives, Russia, 1999	186
6.40	Comparison of youth civic relations and identity and its correlation with their life situations (Mean on 7 point scale), Russia, 1999	187
6.41	Characteristics of two different models of civic identity among Russian youth, 1999	188
6.42	Correlation between identity indicators and youth orientation towards stability and risk, Russia, 1999	188
6.43	Correlation between civic identity indicators and level of ethnic tension among youth (as percent of group), Russia, 1999	189

6.44	Level of young people's knowledge of their ethnic traditions and ceremonies, depending upon conditions of stability and risk (in percent), Russia, 1999	191
6.45	Correlation between civic and ethnic identities among youth (in percent of different groups), Russia, 1999	192
6.46	Crimes committed in Russia, 1998	193
6.47	Juvenile crimes known to the police according to age group, Russia, 1994–1998	193
6.48	Category of juvenile crimes in Russia (in percent), 1994–1998	194
6.49	Correlation between youth civic identity models and socio-demographic characteristics in Russia (Contingency coefficient), 1999	195
7.1	The reproductive basis of risk among youth	204