

Contents

1. Multicultural Orientation to Child Maltreatment Work	1
Orienting Concepts	2
Ecosystemic Framework	2
Treating Clients Fairly	8
Poverty	17
Child Maltreatment	20
Working with Families	20
Research and Clinical Literature on Culture and Child Maltreatment	26
Concluding Thoughts: Remembering the Difficulty of the Material and the Sacredness of Our Work	28
2. Working with Immigrant Families Affected by Child Maltreatment	30
Social Stressors for Immigrant Families	30
Family Life, Child Behavior, and Discipline	35
Immigrants and the Child Welfare System	37
Domestic Violence	45
Basic U.S. Immigration Definitions	47
Suggestions for Improving Cultural Competence with Immigrants	48
Concluding Thoughts	56
3. Assessing Diverse Families for Child Maltreatment	58
What Constitutes a Suspicion, and What's Culture Got to Do with It?	60
Is It Maltreatment? Is the Child at Risk?	63
Once Again: How Culture Matters	79
Assessment Instruments and Structured Decision Making	80
Concluding Thoughts	82

4. Interviewing Diverse Children and Families about Maltreatment	83
Before the Interview or First Session	84
Building Rapport and Establishing Trust	90
During the Interview	92
Closure and Preparation for the Next Steps	106
Concluding Thoughts	107
5. Physical Discipline and Abuse	108
Research on Group Differences	110
Corporal Punishment and Physical Abuse	112
Culture in Discipline and Abuse	116
Child-Raising Norms	118
Intervening with Families Who Use Harsh Corporal Punishment	121
Supporting Nonviolent Parenting	129
Prevention Programming	131
Concluding Thoughts	133
6. Child Sexual Abuse	135
Shame in Child Sexual Abuse	136
Cultural Aspects of Shame in Child Sexual Abuse	139
Counteracting Shame	156
Concluding Thoughts	158
7. Working with Interpreters in Child Maltreatment	159
When to Use an Interpreter	161
Finding an Interpreter	161
Informal Interpreters	163
Preparing Interpreters	165
Cultural Asides and Other Reasons to Pause an Interview	168
The Interpreter's Role	169
The Interpreted Conversation	170
The Emotional Cost of Interpreting in Child Abuse Situations	173
Concluding Thoughts	174
8. Child Maltreatment Prevention and Parent Education	176
Child Maltreatment Prevention	177
The Parents' Best Interests	187
Addressing Physical Abuse: Parent Groups and Classes	188
Concluding Thoughts	198

9. Improving the Cultural Competency of Your Child Maltreatment Agency or Organization	200
Why Should Agencies Change? 201
Concluding Thoughts 212
A Final Wish	215
References	217
Index	231