

S. Ekland-Olson W.R. Kelly

Justice Under Pressure

A Comparison of Recidivism Patterns
Among Four Successive Parolee Cohorts

With 29 Illustrations

With H.-J. Joo, J. Olbrich, and M. Eisenberg

Springer-Verlag
New York Berlin Heidelberg London Paris
Tokyo Hong Kong Barcelona Budapest

Contents

Preface	v
Chapter 1 National Trends and the Assessment of Prison Crowding	1
National Trends—1975 through 1989	1
A Sea-Change in Prisoner Rights	6
Assessing the Impact of Litigated Prison Reform	7
Chapter 2 Population, Political, and Judicial Pressures on the Texas Criminal Justice System	13
The Texas Prison Crowding Crisis	13
Pressure from the Media	15
Pressure from the Federal Court	18
The Legislative Response	20
Pressure Moves to the Parole System	22
The Legislature Restructures the Criminal Justice System	26
The Study Design	28
Chapter 3 Intra-Cohort Variation in Reincarceration	30
Characteristics of the Pooled 1984 and 1985 Cohorts	30
Reincarceration Offense Patterns	48
Conclusion	50
Chapter 4 Inter-Cohort Comparisons of Reincarceration Rates ...	52
Trends in Reincarceration	53
Correlates of Recidivism across Cohorts	57
Conclusion	64

Chapter 5	Multivariate Prediction of Reincarceration	67
	Analysis of Parole Outcome	67
	Data and Model Fitting	68
	Analysis of Survival Time	78
	Conclusion	84
Chapter 6	An Evaluation of the Legislative Response: The Prison Management Act	85
	Background of the Prison Management Act	85
	Operation of the Prison Management Act	89
	Data and Methods	91
	Results	92
	Conclusion	103
Chapter 7	Incarceration and Crime: Is There a Link?	105
	Incarceration and Crime	105
	National and Two-State Comparisons	110
	Alternative Explanations for Varying Trends in California and Texas	116
	Conclusion	118
Chapter 8	Conclusions and Policy Implications	120
	The Back-Door Solution: Parole Release	120
	The Front Door Solution: Intermediate Sanctions	123
	Increasing Prison Capacity	125
	Appendix A: Salient Factor Score	130
	Appendix B: Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles (BPP) Regions	132
	References	133
	Index	139