

THE FUNDAMENTAL QUESTIONS OF CRIMINOLOGY

By

DR. M. VERMES, C.Sc.

1978

A. W. SIJTHOFF · LEYDEN

AKADÉMIAI KIADÓ · BUDAPEST

CONTENTS

Introduction	7
CHAPTER ONE — THE ORIGINS OF CRIMINOLOGY
§ 1 Elements of the evolution of the social sciences	9
§ 2 First elements of the criminological outlook	13
§ 3 The origins of criminology	23
CHAPTER TWO — THE SUBJECT MATTER OF CRIMINOLOGY
§ 1 The significance of the subject matter in science	38
§ 2 Criminality as a mass phenomenon	42
(I) Criminality of the various economic-social formations in outline	43
(A) The conditions of the primitive communities	43
(B) Criminality in the slave-holder societies	46
(C) Criminality in the feudal ages	51
(D) Criminality in the bourgeois society	59
(E) Theories of criminality in the socialist society	67
§ 3 The criminal offence as an individual phenomenon	74
(I) The concept of the criminal offence as a certain behaviour of the individual	75
(II) Elements of the criminal offence	84
(A) Danger to society	84
(B) Criminal conduct	86
(a) The development of man as a species	86
(b) Man as an individual	89
(c) The development of personality	90
(C) Legal establishment of the criminal offence	102
CHAPTER THREE — THE PROBLEM OF CAUSALITY IN CRIMINOLOGY
§ 1 The principles of causality	104
§ 2 The limits of causal relations in criminology	107
§ 3 Dialectics of the objective and subjective conditions	117

CHAPTER FOUR — CRIMINOLOGY IN THE SYSTEM OF SCIENCES

§ 1 The notion of criminology	122
§ 2 Criminology in the system of criminal sciences	124
(I) Criminology and the discipline of criminal law	125
(II) Criminology and criminalistics	129
(III) Criminology and penology	130
(IV) Criminology and crime prevention	130
§ 3 Relations of criminology and sociology, and of criminology and psychology	132

CHAPTER FIVE — CRIMINOLOGY AND CRIMINAL POLICY

§ 1 The notion of criminal policy	139
§ 2 Stability and dynamics of criminal policy	144
§ 3 The role of criminology in shaping criminal policy	145
§ 4 Criminology and prevention	150

CHAPTER SIX — METHODOLOGICAL QUESTIONS OF CRIMINOLOGY

§ 1 General principles of methodology	160
§ 2 Research techniques	168
§ 3 Some of the methodological experiences of empirical research	177
References	182
Name index	187
Subject index	189