

Imprisoned women and mothers

by Diane Caddle and Debbie Crisp

A Research and Statistics Directorate Report

Home Office
Research and Statistics
Directorate

Contents

	Page
Foreword	iii
Acknowledgements	iv
Summary	ix
1. Introduction	1
Background	1
Other studies	2
The present study	2
Method	3
2. Women prisoners	5
Age	5
Ethnic origin	5
Country of birth	6
Nationality	6
Type of imprisonment	6
Sentence length	6
Type of offence	7
3. Imprisoned mothers	9
Number of mothers	9
Mothers' ages and ethnic origin	10
Mothers' age when first child born	11
Marital status	11
Living arrangements before prison	11
Accommodation before prison	11
Employment before prison	12
Childhood and care histories	12
Drugs and psychiatric problems	13
Previous custodial sentences	13
Reasons for offending	14

4. The children	17
Number of children	17
Children's ages	18
Living arrangements at the time of imprisonment	19
Living arrangements after their mothers' imprisonment	21
Satisfaction with care arrangements	23
5. Problems experienced by carers, children and mothers	25
Problems experienced by carers	25
Children's problems	27
Problems experienced by mothers	29
6. Maintaining contact with children, family and friends	31
Children's knowledge of their mothers' imprisonment	32
Contact with children: teletelephonecalls and letters	32
Contact with children: visits	33
Visits from family and friends	35
Home leave	35
Community prisons	36
7. Foreign nationals who normally live abroad	37
Background and sentencing details	37
Children and arrangements for their care	39
Maintaining contact with children and family	43
8. Mother and Baby Units	45
The number of unit places needed	45
Information about Mother and Baby Units	46
Being on a Mother and Baby Unit	47
Expectant mothers	47
9. Preparing for release from prison and future plans	49
Post - release expectations	49
Living arrangements after release from custody	50
Accommodation plans after release from custody	50
Employment plans after release from custody	51
Plans for reuniting with children after release from custody	52
Preparing prisoners for release	53
10 Summary and discussion	55

Appendix A	57
Women's prisons
Appendix B	59
The women's home areas
References	65