

Making Stories, Making Selves

FEMINIST REFLECTIONS ON THE HOLOCAUST

R. Ruth Linden

A Helen Hooven Santmyer Prize Winner

Ohio State University Press
COLUMBUS

CONTENTS

Preface: “ But Is It Sociology? ”	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Author’s Notes	xv
Prologue: Making Stories, Making Selves	1
PART I: To Be an Assimilated Jew in the Late Twentieth Century	13
1 Reflections on “Sheer Happenings”	15
2 My Grandmother’s Samovar	19
3 “We Don’t Believe in ‘Organized Religion’”	26
4 Coming of Age as a Feminist (1976–77)	34
5 Reinventing Ethnicity (1978–84)	47
PART II: Toward a Sociology of the Holocaust	59
6 Bearing Witness: Reflections on Interviewing Jewish Holocaust Survivors (with Lani Silver)	61
7 Reflections on “Bearing Witness”	70
8 The Phenomenology of Surviving: Toward a Sociology of the Holocaust	84
9 Reflections on “The Phenomenology of Surviving”	103
10 “In the Name of the House of Orange”: A Life History of Leesha Rose during the Holocaust	113
11 Reflections on “‘In the Name of the House of Orange’”	136
Epilogue: Genocide / Consequences	147
Notes	153
Glossary	165
Bibliography	171
Index	181