

Bouncers

Violence and Governance in the Night-time Economy

DICK HOBBS
PHILIP HADFIELD
STUART LISTER
SIMON WINLOW

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Introduction	1
1 Let the Good Times Roll: Liminality and the Night-time Economy	13
‘Let’s go get stoned’ Ray Charles	13
Crawling from the wreckage: cultural industries and urban regeneration	15
The business of pleasure: communities of consumption in every-night-life	19
Good time working	23
The night-time economy	25
Regulation of the night-time economy	28
The new urban governance	32
Booze, the urban night, and the human ecology of violence	36
Public police: the night-time omission	43
Receiving shadows	44
And one more for the road	49
A Case Study of Manchester	51
2 After-dark ‘Fun’ and its Control in the Industrial City	53
The industrial city	53
Leisure in the industrial city	55
The ‘dance craze’	62
3 Post-industrial Manchester: From Cotton to Carlsberg	71
The phoenix and the night-owl	71
Madchester	76
Urban ‘exotica’	81
Gaychester	82
The number of licensed premises	85
The number of consumers	86
The economic value of the night-time economy	87
A new urbanity?	87

viii Contents

Dodgin' the rain and bullets	88
Gangchester	89
Gunchester	91
Street violence, alcohol, and young men: an old problem for the 'new' city	99
The Manchester Citycentresafe Initiative	106
Conclusion	107
4 Tommy Smith's Story: Four Decades On The Door	109
5 A Word At The Door: Bouncers On Their Work	119
Access denied	120
The barred	123
Local knowledge	127
Other difficulties: disorderly women	132
Different doors	136
Dealing with trouble: talking nicely	138
Dealing with trouble: looking the part	142
Local bodies	145
Dealing with trouble: rough and tumble	147
Dealing with trouble: fighting	151
The night-time excuse me	153
Violent night	157
The moral mandate of bouncing	162
6 Manners Maketh the Man: Licensing 'Door Supervisors' and the Discourses of Professionalism and Safety	165
Introduction	165
Context: situating the registration agenda	167
Registration as a regulatory mechanism	169
Legal powers to regulate and the coverage shortfall	174
The vetting requirement	177
The training requirement	182
Training in the ways of the law: 'justice', culture, and commercial confidences	187
Let's get physical: training to be (like) Steven Seagal	192
Watching the watchers: enforcement, revocation, and accountability	196
Market development, market diversification, and the division of labour	203
Licensing badges: symbols of safety, symptoms of threat	207

7	Market Force: Class, Violence, and Liminal Business on the Night-time Frontier	211
	Class, commerce, and violent competence	211
	Pauline's story: where security meets protection	212
	The muscle market	219
	Bouncing as class work	222
	Market force	225
	Bouncing as police work	231
	The monopoly of muscle	234
	Frontier business	237
	Door war	240
	Conclusion: class, capital, and trajectories of force	242
8	Night Futures: The Marketization of License and Control	245
	Development, diversification, and homogeneity	246
	Contemporary controls	248
	So, you think you're tough?	253
	Going with the flow	258
	(De)regulating the night-time city	261
9	Big People, Dirty Work: A Conclusion	269
	Win or lose we are on the booze: a moral contradiction	270
	Night moves	276
	The queue for the last kebab	277
	References	281
	Index	315