IMPERIAL FROM THE BEGINNING

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE ORIGINAL EXECUTIVE

Saikrishna Bangalore Prakash

Yale UNIVERSITY PRESS

New Haven and London
CONTENTS

Acknowledgments, ix

Introduction, i

CHAPTER ONE
"A King, Under the Title of President," 12

CHAPTER TWO
"English Whigs, Cordial in Their . . . Jealousies of Their Executive Magistrate," 28

CHAPTER THREE
Constituting "His Highness" the President, 36

CHAPTER FOUR
The Executive Power as the "Active Principle in All Governments," 63
CONTENTS

CHAPTER FIVE
“The Constitutional Executor of the Laws,” 84

CHAPTER SIX
The “Transaction of Business with Foreign Nations Is Executive Altogether,” 110

CHAPTER SEVEN
“First General and Admiral of the Confederacy,” 142

CHAPTER EIGHT
The Executive Power “of Appointing, Overseeing, and Controlling Those Who Execute the Laws,” 171

CHAPTER NINE
“Not a Single Privilege Is Annexed to His Character,” 203

CHAPTER TEN
The “Combined Authority of Execution and Legislation,” 238

CHAPTER ELEVEN
Judges as “Shoots from the Executive Stock,” 268

CHAPTER TWELVE
“Whatsoever Requisition the President Shall Make” and the Federal Duties of State Executives, 285

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
The President as “Glorious Protector” of the Constitution, 298

Conclusion, 320

Notes, 325

Index, 436