Joint Research and Development under US Antitrust and EU Competition Law

Björn Lundqvist

Associate Professor of Competition Law, Copenhagen Business School, Denmark

NEW HORIZONS IN COMPETITION LAW AND ECONOMICS

Edward Elgar Publishing
Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA
Contents

Acknowledgements ix

Table of cases xi

1. Introduction 1

2. Innovation economics 5
   2.1 Network industries 13
   2.2 The pharmaceutical industry 17
   2.3 Competition as an evolutionary process 19
   2.4 Industrial economics, intellectual property law and competition law 22

3. Research and development agreements under US antitrust law and EU competition rules 29
   3.1 Introduction 29
   3.2 The US National Cooperative Research and Production Act of 1993 32
     3.2.1 Historical background 32
     3.2.2 The National Cooperative Research and Production Act and Innovation Market 53
     3.2.3 Cases and business review letters 96
     3.2.4 The latest amendment to the NCRPA, standard-setting 116
     3.2.5 Conclusion 121
   3.3 The EU antitrust regulation of research and development 127
     3.3.1 Introduction 127
     3.3.2 The origins of the R&D exemption 127
     3.3.3 Case law development 142
     3.3.4 The system under the modern block exemptions 171
     3.3.5 Is there a right to access joint R&D ventures under Article 101 TFEU? 208
     3.3.6 Standardisation agreements 211
     3.3.7 Concluding remarks and the very latest development 218
3.4 A comparative study: Is there a practical difference in the treatment of research and development agreements between the two jurisdictions? 221
3.4.1 Introduction 221
3.4.2 What is anticompetitive? 226
3.4.3 Definition of joint R&D, joint production and sales 228
3.4.4 The general exempted area 231
3.4.5 Black lists 234
3.4.6 Outside the safe zones 238
3.4.7 Standard-setting consortia 241
3.5 Conclusion 246
4. Innovation policy to be implemented 248

Bibliography 253
Index 271