

What's Wrong with Terrorism?

A/456330

Robert E. Goodin

polity

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	x
1 Introduction	1
2 Terrorism as Unjust War: Killing Innocent Civilians	6
Three problems with the just-war analysis of terrorism	9
A different sense of 'innocence'	18
War crime, ordinary crime or a special offence?	21
3 Terrorism as a Political Tactic: Intending to Instil Fear	31
What sort of 'ism' is terrorism?	32
What terrorists want	35
Fear is the key	45
Summing up	48
4 States Can Be Terrorists, Too	50
The definitional ploy	53
States terrorizing other states	60
States terrorizing their own people	66
State-sponsored terror and crimes of complicity	73
5 Warnings Can Be Terroristic, Too: Profiting Politically from Fear	78
Threats and warnings	80

Impure warnings: 'terrorist warnings' versus 'warnings of terrorism'	85
Politicians' intentions matter, too	91
Terrorism as an aggravated wrong: is 'violence' required?	100
Better 'terrorist warnings' than none at all?	108
6 Warnings Bound to Be Misheard	111
How big a deal is terrorism?	114
Calibrating risks	118
Mechanisms of misperception	123
Mass-mediated terror	131
Risks of really mass destruction	136
Imprudent precautions	142
7 Terrorizing Democracy	156
Terrorism as a political wrong	156
Fearlessness as a response	159
Hobbesian solutions to non-Hobbesian problems	170
Of tyrants and terrorists	176
8 Conclusions	179
Notes	187
References	218
Index	238