Great Powers and Strategic Stability in the 21st Century
Competing visions of world order

Edited by Graeme P. Herd
Contents

List of illustrations  xi
List of contributors  xiv
Foreword  xix
AMBASSADOR FRED TANNER
Acknowledgments  xxi

PART I
Introduction  1

1 International security, Great Powers and world order  3
GRAEME P. HERD AND PÁL DUNAY

Introduction  3
Approaches to international relations and the concept of security  6
World order paradigms  12
Structure of the book  17

PART II
Strategic threats: nature and evolution  21

2 Terrorism and extremism  23
EKATERINA STEPANOVA

Defining terrorism as a security threat  25
Terrorism and extremism: the role of extremist ideologies  27
The origins and periodization of terrorism  29
The evolution of the understanding of terrorism  30
Current trends in terrorism  32
Anti-terrorism at the national level  37
Anti-terrorism at the international level  39
3 Proliferation of weapons of mass destruction

GUSTAV LINDSTROM

Introduction 45
The threat of WMD proliferation 45
The challenge of managing WMD proliferation 47
Future trends in WMD proliferation 58
Conclusion 60

4 Regional crisis, conflict and fragile states

CATY CLÉMENT

Are fragile states a strategic threat? 65
State fragility, a new threat? 68
Key challenges, obstacles and dilemmas 72
Solutions, future trends and trajectories 77

5 How energy and climate change may pose a threat to sustainable security

TAPANI VAAHTORANTA

The energy–climate era 82
Energy security trends 84
Energy as a security threat 85
Climate change as a security threat 88
Three groups of states on the Kuznets curve 90
Sustainable future 95

PART III
Centers of global power: strategic priorities and threat management

6 The United States: leadership beyond unipolarity?

MATTHEW RHODES

Introduction 101
Unipolarity 101
The Bush revolution 102
Change under Obama? 107
Conclusion 114
7 The Russian Federation: striving for multipolarity but missing the consequences
PAVEL K. BAEV

Introduction 117
Foreign-policy thinking and decision-making 118
Russia in/out/about the key international institutions 120
Threat assessment and risk-management 124
Migration, declining population and other human security challenges 130
Conclusions 131

8 China as an emergent center of global power
BATES GILL

China: emergent center of global power 137
China’s security priorities 138
China’s response 145
Current trends and trajectories 150

9 Global threats and India’s quest for strategic space
SIDDHARTH VARADARAJAN

Terrorism and political extremism 159
WMD proliferation 161
Regional crises and fragile states 164
Environmental and energy security 165
Conclusion 167

10 The EU: facing non-traditional threats in a globalized world
THIERRY TARDY

The EU’s foreign and security policy: an aspiration to be a global liberal actor 172
The EU threat assessment: the prevalence of non-traditional threats 175
Policy responses and instruments: still focused on crisis management 178
Europeanization and globalization: the EU as the problem or the solution? 184
Conclusion 186
PART IV
Conclusions: cooperative and conflictual imperatives 191

11 Great Powers: towards a "cooperative competitive" future world order paradigm? 193
GRAEME P. HERD

Alternative global orders? 197
2025: towards a globalized interdependent world order? 200
What's past is prologue? 203

Bibliography 209
Index 228