THAT THE BLOOD STAY PURE

AFRICAN AMERICANS, NATIVE AMERICANS, AND THE PREDICAMENT OF RACE AND IDENTITY IN VIRGINIA

ARICA L. COLEMAN

INDIANA UNIVERSITY PRESS

Bloomington & Indianapolis
CONTENTS

Foreword by Joseph F. Jordan xi
Preface xv
Acknowledgments xxi

Introduction 1

PART 1. HISTORICIZING BLACK–INDIAN RELATIONS IN VIRGINIA

1 Notes on the State of Virginia: Jeffersonian Thought and the Rise of Racial Purity Ideology in the Eighteenth Century 42

2 Redefining Race and Identity: The Indian–Negro Confusion and the Changing State of Black–Indian Relations in the Nineteenth Century 64

4 Denying Blackness: Anthropological Advocacy and the Remaking of the Virginia Indians 122

PART 2. BLACK–INDIAN RELATIONS IN THE PRESENT STATE OF VIRGINIA

5 Beyond Black and White: Afro-Indian Identity in the Case of Loving v. Virginia 151
The Racial Integrity Fight: Confrontations of Race and Identity in Charles City County, Virginia  177

Nottoway Indians, Afro-Indian Identity, and the Contemporary Dilemma of State Recognition  207

Epilogue: Afro-Indian Peoples of Virginia: The Indelible Thread of Black and Red  235

Appendix: The Racial Integrity Act  243

Notes  245

Selected Bibliography  285

Index  293