Urban Transport XXII

Editors

C.A. Brebbia
Wessex Institute, UK

L. D’Acierno
University of Naples Federico II, Italy
Contents

South African public opinion on the state of urban transport: an appraisal of the achievement of policy objectives
G. J. Heyns & R. Luke................................................................. 1

Simulation-based concept study of the efficiency gain using a hybrid-electric refrigerated vehicle with an electrically operated cooling system for urban freight transport
D. Dvorak, H. Lacher, D. Simic & T. Bäuml........................................ 13

Resilience and sustainability: an integrated method for quantitative assessment of a bridge – a case study
Y. Li, Q. He, J. G. Han & X. Luo................................................... 25

Establishing of track quality level management system for ballastless track of high-speed railway
J. F. Shen, Y. D. Xu & H. F. Li...................................................... 39

Management of infrastructure’s safety under the influence of normative provisions
P. Nizeremes, K. Kirytopoulos & I. Tatsiopoulos.................................. 51

Assessment of road transport infrastructure in Osogbo, Osun State, Nigeria
S. B. Adedotun, D. S. Ogundahunsi & A. S. Oyeniyi............................ 61

Vehicle exterior noise quality evaluation in different elastic rail fastener track sections based on psychoacoustic parameters
L. Li, Q. Zhu & Y. Xie................................................................. 73
Cloud computing for a dynamic and synchromodal container consolidation
A. Tsertou, A. Amditis, T. Theodoropoulos, E. Latsa,
J. Kanellopoulos & M. Kotras .......................................................... 83

Safety awareness of roadside traders in Osogbo Township,
Osun State, Nigeria
D. S. Ogundahunsi, S. B. Adedotun & S. A. Adejiwon .......................... 93

Prevention of occupational accidents and diseases in the logistics of goods distribution in city centres:
the case of electric trucks
L. Wioland & V. Govaere ............................................................... 105

How the savagism of the motorbike culture has shaped the narco city
C. M. Jaramillo ................................................................. 119

Author index ............................................................................... 131