

Frode Ulvund

Religious Otherness and National Identity
in Scandinavia,
c. 1790–1960

—

The Construction of Jews, Mormons, and Jesuits
as Anti-Citizens and Enemies of Society

Translated by Adam King

DE GRUYTER

Contents

Illustrations — IX

- 1 Religiously foreign and nationally undesirable — 1
- 2 Tolerating religious pluralism? — 18
  - Freedom of religion as historical abstraction — 18
  - Tolerance and toleration — 19
  - The practice of toleration — 22
  - The Netherlands and religious segregation — 26
  - Agonising American pluralism — 28
  - Religion and politics — 32
- 3 The fear of states within the state — 37
  - John Locke and untrustworthy citizens — 37
  - Samuel Pufendorf – agitation or disobedience? — 39
  - Ludvig Holberg – good people, bad citizens? — 41
  - “State within the state” as anti-republican slogan — 44
  - “State within the state” as anti-feudal slogan — 48
  - Nobles and Jews as “parasitic twins” — 54
- 4 Unfit as citizens? – the Jewish danger c. 1790–1851 — 55
  - Eidsvoll 1814 — 55
  - “The Jew” as anti-citizen — 57
  - “State within the state” as anti-Jewish slogan — 63
  - The fear of Jewish separatism in Denmark-Norway — 71
  - Demands for assimilation in France — 78
  - Napoleon’s Trojan Jews? — 81
  - Denmark’s Jewish literary feud of 1813 — 85
  - The 1814 Letter of Freedom – Danish Assimilation Policy — 90
  - Norway and the abstract Jew — 91
  - The fear of Christian heterodoxy — 99
  - Jews as political danger in Denmark after 1814 — 105
  - Swedish segregation policy — 109
  - Towards a Christian-liberal discourse — 114
  - A European transition — 121

- 5 Islam's sensuous sibling? – the Mormon danger
c. 1850–1955 — 126
- A turbulent encounter — 126
  - The American context — 134
  - Anti-Mormon representations in the United States — 138
  - Are Mormons Christian? — 142
  - “extremely dangerous for the State and civil Society” — 144
  - Communism and sibling of Islam? — 148
  - Immoral enemies of the social order — 152
  - The Mormons and “the white slave trade” — 163
  - The attempt at special anti-Mormon legislation — 182
  - Mormon travel restrictions in Scandinavia and US diplomacy — 185
  - From emigration to integration in Denmark? — 195
  - Towards the 1950s: Immoral pirates — 200
  - Imported American fears and innate stereotypes — 203
- 6 A moral threat to society? – the Jesuit danger 1814–1961 — 208
- A father and his “Jesuitism” — 208
  - The soldiers of the papistic Counter-Reformation — 211
  - A Jesuitical state within the state? — 214
  - Catholicism and religious nationalism — 218
  - Scandinavian anti-Jesuitism in the 1920s — 237
  - “Jesuit fascism” in the post-war period — 254
- 7 The nation's anti-citizens: A conclusion — 262
- Nation, religion and politics — 262
  - From subject to citizen — 265
  - Moral citizenship — 269
  - An anti-citizenship in the nation — 274
  - Transnational abstractions — 277
  - Timeless notions — 281

Bibliography — 283

Index of names — 306