Architectural Principles in the Age of Cybernetics

CHRISTOPHER HIGHT
Contents

vii CREDITS & ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

01 Chapter 1. INTRODUCTION
03 Prologue: Infernal Returns
05 The Body of Architectural Knowledge
12 The Structure of the Book

15 Chapter 2. THE PHENOMENAL ORIGIN OF ARCHITECTURE
18 Primal Identification
20 The Home of Man
22 The Decay of Modern Architecture
29 The Pathos of Phenomenology

33 Chapter 3. THE STRUCTURAL CONTINUITIES OF CLASSICISM
36 Classical Systems of Knowledge and Subjects
38 Gendered Bodies of Architecture
41 The Hidden Interior of Architecture
44 Modernity as "The End of the Classical"
48 The Paradoxes of Not-Modern Architecture
51 Post-Structural Problems

55 Chapter 4. MODULOR RESIDUES OF HISTORY
57 Recalling the Modular
61 The Residual Historicity of the Modular
62 The Modular as "One Example"
64 The Modular as Vitruvius's Heir
67 Unfinished Business

71 Chapter 5. A MID-CENTURY RENAISSANCE
73 Wittkower's Renaissance
76 A Paradigm Shift?
77 The Architectural Principles of the Modular
79 Points of Emergence
81 The Rowe Effect
84 Diagrams of Discoursivity

91 Chapter 6. THE SCHEMA AND DIAGRAM
93 The Modern Problem of Knowledge
96 The Schema and the Post-Modern Subject
97 Neo-Kantian Networks, aka, Architectural History as Anthropological Epistemology
100 Proportion as a Modern Problem
103 The Subject of Architecture

111 Chapter 7. THE SYMBOLIC BACK
114 The Mechanization of Life
117 Researching the New Humankind's Activities in 118 Disputed Boundaries of Man vs. Animal
121 "Man" as "Animal Symbolic"
125 The Netz-worked Body
128 Simian Architecture
131 A Manifesto for Equipoise

135 Chapter 8. MEASURED PREHISTORY
141 Prehistory of the Golden Section
143 The Golden Section as a Constant
147 A Measure of Empathy
152 The Golden Section as a Quasi-Object
Chapter 6. THE SCHEMA AND THE DIAGRAM
91 The Modern Problem of Knowledge
93 The Schema and the Post-Kantian Subject
97 Neo-Kantian Networks, aka, Architectural History as Anthropological Epistemology
100 Proportion as a Modern Problem
103 The Subject of Architecture

Chapter 7. THE SYMBOLIC STRIKES BACK
114 The Mechanization of Life and Death
117 Researching the New Human: Giedion’s Activities in the 1950s
118 Disputed Boundaries of Man and Animal
121 “Man” as “Animal Symbolicum”
125 The Netz-worked Body
128 Simitian Architecture
131 A Manifesto for Equipoise

Chapter 8. MEASURED RESPONSE
135 Prehistory of the Golden Section
143 The Golden Section as a Natural Constant
147 A Measure of Empathy
152 The Golden Section as a Modern Quasi-Object

Chapter 9. REFLECTIONS OF THE MODULOR
157 A World of Flow
164 The Ideal Average
167 Corrective Lenses
170 Post-War Anamorphosis
173 Containment Protocols

Chapter 10. MEASURING VORTICES
183 Untimely Mediations
193 Aqueous Solutions and Conclusions

APPENDIX 1
APPENDIX 2
NOTES
INDEX