

MUSICOPHILIA

Tales of Music and the Brain

~

OLIVER SACKS

REVISED AND EXPANDED

3

PICADOR

Contents

Preface	ix
---------	----

Part I: Haunted by Music

1. A Bolt from the Blue: Sudden Musicophilia	3
2. A Strangely Familiar Feeling: Musical Seizures	19
3. Fear of Music: Musicogenic Epilepsy	24
4. Music on the Brain: Imagery and Imagination	32
5. Brainworms, Sticky Music, and Catchy Tunes	44
6. Musical Hallucinations	54

Part II: A Range of Musicality

7. Sense and Sensibility: A Range of Musicality	95
8. Things Fall Apart: Amusia and Dysharmonia	105
9. Papa Blows His Nose in G: Absolute Pitch	129
10. Pitch Imperfect: Cochlear Amusia	140
11. In Living Stereo: Why We Have Two Ears	152
12. Two Thousand Operas: Musical Savants	162
13. An Auditory World: Music and Blindness	171
14. The Key of Clear Green: Synesthesia and Music	177

Part III: Memory, Movement, and Music

15. In the Moment: Music and Amnesia	201
16. Speech and Song: Aphasia and Music Therapy	232
17. Accidental Davening: Dyskinesia and Cantillation	243
18. Come Together: Music and Tourette's Syndrome	247
19. Keeping Time: Rhythm and Movement	254
20. Kinetic Melody: Parkinson's Disease and Music Therapy	270
21. Phantom Fingers: The Case of the One-Armed Pianist	284
22. Athletes of the Small Muscles: Musician's Dystonia	289

Part IV: Emotion, Identity, and Music

23. Awake and Asleep: Musical Dreams	303
24. Seduction and Indifference	312
25. Lamentations: Music, Madness, and Melancholia	324
26. The Case of Harry S.: Music and Emotion	333
27. Irrepressible: Music and the Temporal Lobes	339
28. A Hypermusical Species: Williams Syndrome	353
29. Music and Identity: Dementia and Music Therapy	371
Acknowledgments	387
Bibliography	393
Index	411