THE FLIGHT OF INTERNATIONAL CAPITAL
A Contemporary History

Brendan Brown

ROUTLEDGE
London and New York
Contents

List of Tables, Figures and Illustrations ix
Acknowledgements xii
List of Abbreviations xiii

Introduction 1

1. Years of Hegemony for the Paris–New York Rate 16
   The first two waves of capital outflow from USA — autumn 1931 and spring 1932 18
   Japan breaks with gold; India dishoards 19
   Third wave of capital flight from the USA — first quarter, 1933 24
   Assessing the currency outlook — spring 1933 34
   Alternating attractions of the French franc and Sterling — second half 1933 41
   The Stavisky Affair and the franc–dollar rate — first quarter 1934 48
   French franc stability — until the Saar plebiscite, January 1935 55
   Belgium leaves the gold bloc — spring 1935 59
   Defection on the gold bloc's eastern frontier — Danzig, Lithuania and Poland 61
   Capital flight from France — May to July 1935 62
   The second wave of French capital flight in 1935 66
   Devaluation of the French franc in suspense — January–September 1936 69
   The gold bloc's final crisis — its aftermath and lessons 74

2. Capital Flight in the Approach to War 87
   The turn in the dollar — summer 1938 91
   Czech crisis deepens, dollar strengthens — September 1938 95
   Currency markets in the week of Munich 101
   Portfolios adjust to Munich 105
   A lull in capital flight to the USA 107
   Czechoslovakia invaded, March 1939 112
   The two-day lag before markets respond to Prague 116
CONTENTS

The new wave of capital flight to USA — spring 1939 120
Hopes of a Grand Alliance support Sterling 126
Portfolio adjustment complete — meanwhile (May to July 1939) 132
Tension over Poland — first three weeks, August 1939 138
How to react to the Nazi–Soviet pact? 143
Sterling's eight-day float, August 25 to September 2 1939 146
Lull in markets until late October 1939 152
All quiet on the Western Front — but not in the currency market, November 1939 to May 1940 156
The offensive in the West — free Sterling and the Swiss franc, May–June 1940 160

3. Solitary Freedom for the Swiss Franc 173
Money and markets after France's defeat; summer and autumn 1940 174
Funds flee the USA — then the freeze 178
The free Swiss franc and the Latin American connection 180
Wartime smuggling of gold and banknotes 187
Swiss–US confrontation 1945–46; the stolen gold 192
German assets in Switzerland — the eventual settlement, 1946–52 195
Capital flight into Switzerland and out of France — 1945 to early 1948 197
From the coup in Prague to German monetary reform 209
French franc and Sterling in crisis, 1948–49; reunification of the Swiss franc 215
Gold and currencies from the Korean War to end-1955 221
First speculation on a revaluation of the Deutsche Mark, 1955–56 224
Hungary and Suez; European currencies weaken 226
Sterling in crisis and the Deutsche Mark's birth as an international money — summer and autumn 1957 230
CONTENTS

4. Towards the Floating Mark-Dollar Axis
   - Early signs of Deutsche Mark power, 1958–61
   - The first Deutsche Mark revaluation and its aftermath
   - Currencies and the Cold War
   - Direct action on capital flows — 1963 to March 1965
   - The wave of gold hoarding in 1965
   - German political risks and the dollar, 1966
   - Sterling, Vietnam and gold fever, 1967–68
   - De Gaulle's challenge to the dollar undermined
   - Indian summer for the dollar, 1969
   - US recession, German wage explosion and monetary conflict — 1970
   - Yen-dollar politics and the floating of the mark — spring 1971

5. Early Experience of Floating
   - Europe in the crossfire between Washington and Tokyo — summer 1971
   - French compromise and dollar devaluation
   - New inflow into the Deutsche Mark — spring 1972
   - Fragile stability — late 1972
   - To the second dollar devaluation — February 1973
   - Paris defeats Bonn — for three weeks only
   - Tide turns for the yen, but not for the mark, spring 1973
   - Currencies react to the energy crisis
   - 1974 — the year of the dollar?

6. The Rise and Fall of Refuge Currencies
   - Pound panics, 1973–76
   - The mark-dollar rate becalmed — autumn 1975 to summer 1976
   - The US locomotive runs short of fuel — 1977–78
   - Swiss refuge against US inflation — summer 1978
   - Heyday of petro-currencies
   - German current account weak, but mark strong — 1979 to August 1980
   - The mark's sharp fall, September 1980 to July 1981

vii
CONTENTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The dollar in the US recession of 1981–82</td>
<td>385</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Debt shock — August 6 1982 v. July 13 1931</td>
<td>389</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Long-run implications for dollar of 1982 debt crisis</td>
<td>393</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Explaining the dollar's surge — spring 1983 to spring 1985</td>
<td>395</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Postscript</td>
<td>409</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chronology</td>
<td>423</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bibliography</td>
<td>435</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Index</td>
<td>443</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>