

Philippe Burger

GETTING IT RIGHT

a new economy for South Africa

Review
Publishing

Contents

Acknowledgement	vii
Foreword by Jeffrey Sachs	ix
Part I
Prosperity, work and the failure of policy	1
Chapter 1
A policy agenda for getting it right	7
Chapter 2
The core of the problem: Politics, power and patronage	16
Chapter 3
Prosperity, work and the legacy of apartheid's labour system	35
Chapter 4
Work and prosperity two decades into democracy	47
Part II
Wages and work in South Africa	69
Chapter 5
Are wages too high, is productivity too low?	74
Chapter 6
Profits and wages – what has changed?	90
Chapter 7
The shift towards skilled labour	105
Chapter 8
Automation, financialisation, globalisation and weakening labour power	125
Chapter 9
Employment, investment and economic growth	146

Part III
Work and economic activity in South Africa's traditional areas	181
Chapter 10
Unemployment and labour market activity in traditional areas	185
Chapter 11
Income, age and informality in traditional areas	203
Chapter 12
The forgotten – South Africa's former bantustans	219
Chapter 13
Development in traditional areas: What needs to be done?	240
Part IV
Workers of today and tomorrow	261
Chapter 14
Education, employment and income in South Africa	268
Chapter 15
Dismal school report	287
Chapter 16
Dysfunction in schools and colleges	315
Chapter 17
The crisis in higher education funding	339
Part V
Conclusion	361
Notes	365
References	385
Index	408
Author Information	419