
Jörg Igelbrink

Perceived Brand Localness

An Empirical Study of the German Fashion Market

With a Preface by Prof. Dr. Klaus-Peter Schoeneberg

Table of Contents

1. Introduction	1
1.1 Problem Statement.....	1
1.2 Research Objective	6
1.3 Course of the Investigation	7
1.4 Conclusion: Introduction.....	9
2. Literature Review	11
2.1 Theoretical Reference Frame	11
2.1.1 Neo Behaviourism Theory	12
2.1.2 Dissonance Theory	16
2.1.3 Semantic Network Theory	19
2.1.4 Consumer Culture Theory	20
2.2 State of Research.....	20
2.2.1 Fashion Marketing	22
2.2.1.1 Fashion Marketing due to Consumer Behaviour Perspective	24
2.2.1.2 Fashion Marketing in terms of Supply-Based Perspective.....	31
2.2.1.3 Fashion Marketing due to Lifestyle Segmentation.....	36
2.2.2 Brand Perception	37
2.2.2.1 Brand Perception due to Coverage	37
2.2.2.2 Brand Perception due to Origin.....	46
2.2.2.3 Brand Perception due to National and Individual Effects	49
2.2.3 Social Media.....	53
2.2.3.1 Fashion Influencer in the Context of Social Media	53
2.2.3.2 Fashion User Content Sources in the Context of Social Media	56
2.2.3.3 Controlling in the Context of Social Media	58
2.3 Conclusion: Literature Review	60
3. Empirical Research and Method Approach.....	67
3.1 Development of Research Objective and Research Questions.....	67
3.2 Research Methodology	69
3.3 Research Approach	75
3.3.1 Research Method Design	76
3.3.1.1 Basis Structure of Sequential Exploratory Mixed-Method Design	76
3.3.1.2 Phases of Sequential Exploratory Mixed-Method Design.....	80
3.3.2 Qualitative Exploratory Pre-Investigation	86
3.3.3 Qualitative Main Study	88
3.3.3.1 Quality Criteria of Study	88
3.3.3.2 Method of Analysis	90

3.3.3.2.1 Content-Structured Guided Interviews	90
3.3.3.2.2 Process of Qualitative Content Data Analysis	95
3.3.3.3 Purposive Sample Selection	101
3.3.3.3.1 Basic Consideration and Foundation of Sample	101
3.3.3.3.2 Sinus Milieus.....	102
3.3.3.3.3 Fashion Involvement	106
3.3.3.3.4 Recruitment of Respondents	109
3.3.3.3.5 Final Sample Description	114
3.3.3.4 Data Collection.....	117
3.3.3.5 Structure and Development of Categories	121
3.3.4 Quantitative Study.....	124
3.3.4.1 Research Approach of Social Media Analytics	124
3.3.4.2 Refinement of Research Questions	127
3.3.4.3 Quantitative Sample Selection	131
3.3.4.3.1 Framework due to Quantitative Sample Selection ...	131
3.3.4.3.2 Quantitative Sample Selection due to Social Media Analytics	132
3.3.4.4 Method of Analysis due to Text Mining Process	134
3.3.4.5 Model Configuration due to Social Media Analytics	136
3.3.4.6 Data Collection	138
3.4 Antecedents of Different German Fashion Design Interpretation	144
3.5 Conclusion: Research Method Approach.....	151
4. Presentation of Results	153
4.1 Insights of Qualitative Pre-Investigation	153
4.2 Insights of Qualitative Data Analysis	156
4.2.1 Education Level as an Impact on the Research Question.....	156
4.2.2 Fashion Involvement as an Impact on the Research Question.....	164
4.2.3 Associations towards Local Fashion Brands.....	169
4.2.4 Determination of Local Fashion Brands	174
4.2.5 Basic Attitude towards Local Fashion Brands	192
4.2.6 Purchase Motivation towards Local Fashion Brands	195
4.2.7 Attitude towards Local Fashion Brands	215
4.2.7.1 Framework due to Relevant Characteristics	215
4.2.7.2 Attitude Attributes of Local Fashion Brands	224
4.2.8 Perception Bias towards Local Fashion Brands.....	234
4.2.8.1 Bias due to Perceived Fashion Brand Signals and Symbols.....	234
4.2.8.2 Bias due to Different Cognitions about a Local Fashion Brand	235
4.2.9 Interim Results of Qualitative Data Analysis	238

4.3 Insights of Quantitative Data Analysis	246
4.3.1 Insights due to Refined Research Question of Quantitative Analysis	246
4.3.1.1 Supplement Research Questions of Social Media Analysis	246
4.3.1.2 Preconditions of Quantitative Social Media Analysis	247
4.3.1.3 Analysis and Insights of Realign Consumers' Frequency Distribution of Gender and Sentiments	250
4.3.1.4 Analysis and Insights of Realign Users' Intention of Recommendation	258
4.3.1.5 Analysis and Insights of Realign Users' Willingness to Pay a Price Premium	263
4.3.1.6 Analysis and Insights of Realign Users' Affiliation towards a Specific Local Fashion Brand Segment	264
4.3.2 Interim Results of Quantitative Analysis	267
4.4 Consolidation of Results and Theory Derivation Due to PFBL	269
4.4.1 Overall Research Question on a Meta Level	269
4.4.2 Characteristics of Local Fashion Brands and Revealed Associations	270
4.4.3 Impact of PFBL on Consumers' LFB Association and Attitude	273
4.4.3.1 Influence due to Consumers' Education Level	273
4.4.3.2 Influence due to Consumers' Value Orientation	274
4.4.3.3 Influence due to Consumers' Fashion Involvement	275
4.4.3.4 The Impact of German Fashion Culture	275
4.4.3.5 Influence Due to Consumers' Gender	276
4.4.3.6 Influence of Attributes on Consumers' LFB Attitude	277
4.4.4 Explanation Theory based on Consumers' LFB Purchase Motivation	278
4.5 Discussion of Results	284
4.5.1 Fashion Marketing regarding Consumer Behaviour	285
4.5.2 Brand Perception and Perceived Brand Localness (PBL)	286
4.5.3 Social Media with regard to Fashion Influencers	287
4.6 Conclusion: Presentation of Results	288
5. Conclusion	289
5.1 Summary of Chapters	289
5.2 Contribution to Theory and Practice	290
5.3 Critical Appraisal and Opportunities for Further Research	295
5.4 Implication for Theory and Practice	297
List of References	299