Developing and Utilizing Employability Capitals
Graduates’ Strategies across Labour Markets

Edited by Tran Le Huu Nghia, Thanh Pham, Michael Tomlinson, Karen Medica and Christopher D. Thompson
Contents

List of figures vii
List of contributors viii
Acknowledgements xii

An overview of the current policy and conceptual landscape of graduate employability 1
MICHAEL TOMLINSON AND TRAN LE HUU NGHIA

PART 1
Background 19

1 The need to develop graduate employability for a globalized world 21
THANH PHAM AND DENISE JACKSON

2 Employability, employability capital, and career development: a literature review 41
TRAN LE HUU NGHIA, JASVIR KAUR NACHATAR SINGH, THANH PHAM AND KAREN MEDICA

3 Using narrative inquiry and critical reflection to examine graduate employability and career development 66
TRAN LE HUU NGHIA

PART 2
Graduates’ reflection on their career development journeys 81

4 Towards securing employment in the host country: personal agency in early career journey 83
HONGBIN LI
Contents

5 Differences in experiences of career development in host and home countries
   MELODY TANG
   97

6 Beyond human capital: the role of other types of capital in graduates’ career development
   ERICA TIPPETT
   116

7 Beyond human capital: combining different employability capitals for career development
   SOPHIE LINDSAY
   132

8 Developing and using social networks for occupational mobility in different labour markets
   LAM H PHAM
   148

9 Using personal agency to achieve different career goals
   HUSSEIN AL MAMARI
   164

10 Career development as a journey to construct professional identity
    ANASTASIYA UMAROVA
    182

11 Circumnavigation: supporting employability by developing ‘capitals’
    MARIE DANIELLE TRAQUILLE
    199

12 Why should I walk the same career development pathways as everyone else?
    JASVIR KAUR NACHATAR SINGH
    219

PART 3
Graduate employability and career development: the way ahead

13 Employability and determinants of employment outcomes
    THANH PHAM AND DENISE JACKSON
    237

14 The way ahead for the employability agenda in higher education
    TRAN LE HUU NGHIA, THANH PHAM, MICHAEL TOMLINSON, KAREN MEDICA AND CHRISTOPHER D. THOMPSON
    256

Index

277