Unlocking the Potential of Migrants in Germany

Benedicte Bergseng, Eva Degler and Samuel Lüthi
Table of contents

Foreword 3

Executive summary 8

1 Overview: Unlocking the potential of migrants through vocational education and training in Germany 10
   About the project: Unlocking the potential of migrants through vocational education and training 11
   The German upper secondary VET system and the apprenticeship market 14
   Immigrant youth in the German apprenticeship market 18
   Summary strengths, challenges and policy pointers 24
   References 28
   Notes 31

2 Getting migrants ready for vocational education and training in Germany 32
   Getting informed: Supporting young people with limited networks and knowledge about the apprenticeship system 33
   Building the necessary skills to enter VET 39
   References 51
   Notes 55

3 Getting into vocational education and training in Germany 56
   The issue and challenges 57
   Policy message 63
   Policy arguments 64
   References 66
   Notes 69

4 Support during vocational education and training in Germany 70
   Issues and challenges in supporting apprentices, schools and employers 71
   Policy message 76
   Policy arguments 76
   References 78
   Notes 80

5 Governing the vocational education and training system in Germany 81
   The complexity in the governance of VET 82
   Ensuring policy coherence 84
   Secure evidence needed to make informed policy decisions 89