

Public Sector Audit

Carolyn J. Cordery and David C. Hay

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1 Introduction	1
1.1 Introduction to the chapter	1
1.2 Structures	1
1.3 Types of audit undertaken	2
1.4 Types of auditees and approach	4
1.5 Overview and conclusion	6
2 Reasons for public audit and explanations for differences	10
2.1 Introduction	10
2.2 Neo-institutional theory	11
2.3 Explanations previously applied to auditing	18
2.4 Public value examined using Moore's model	24
2.5 Explanations and evidence from other previous studies	25
2.6 Discussion and conclusion	29
3 Supreme Audit Institutions around the world	35
3.1 Introduction	35
3.2 Sources and analysis and the audit activities undertaken	36
3.3 SAI models and their activities	37
3.4 Isomorphism	47
3.5 Explanations for the existence of auditing, SAI model and types of auditing	62
3.6 Size and culture	65
3.7 Effectiveness	67
3.8 Public value	74
3.9 Discussion and conclusion	74

4	Risks and opportunities in the future	80
4.1	Introduction	80
4.2	Future opportunities for audit	81
4.3	What are SAIs preparing for?	89
4.4	Implications for the future	94
5	Overview of main themes and projections	100
5.1	Introduction	100
5.2	Main themes	100
5.3	Conclusion	104
	Index	106