Table of Contents

Executive summary ................................................................. xiii

Acknowledgement ........................................................................ xvii

1. Introduction................................................................. 1
   Background .............................................................................. 1
   Aim of the study ............................................................... 4
   Data ................................................................................... 5
   Analytical strategy ......................................................... 6
   Policy relevance .............................................................. 8
   Organisation of the report .............................................. 9

2. Geographical proximity .................................................. 11
   Introduction ........................................................................ 11
   Multi-generation household: a southern European phenomenon .. 12
   At least one non-coresident child close by ......................... 16
   No major gender differences .............................................. 16
   Parental divorce leads to greater distance ......................... 16
   Shorter distances to children in the event of health problems .... 17
   Status creates distance ..................................................... 17
   Other significant personal characteristics ............................. 18
   Between-country differences ............................................. 18

3. Contacts ........................................................................ 19
   Introduction .......................................................................... 19
   Frequent and good contact ............................................. 27
   Most contact between mothers and daughters, least contact between fathers and sons ........................................ 29
   More contact in large families, but less contact per child ......... 30
   Parental divorce has major negative social consequences ...... 30
   Higher status leads to less contact .................................... 31
   Other differentials by parent and child characteristics .......... 32
   How contact relates to distance ........................................... 33
   Between-country differences .............................................. 34
4. Family care obligations ................................................................. 35
   Introduction .............................................................................. 35
   Strong preference for government support in northern Europe .... 40
   Strong sense of duty to care ..................................................... 41
   Women feel weaker family care obligations ............................. 41
   Parental divorce weakens sense of family duty ....................... 42
   Status weakens sense of obligation ......................................... 42
   Religion strengthens sense of duty to care ............................... 42
   Need for care does not lead to a stronger sense of duty to care .... 42
   Burden of care leads to a weaker sense of duty to care .......... 43
   Between-country differences ............................................... 43

5. Support exchange ...................................................................... 45
   Introduction .............................................................................. 45
   5.1. Help in kind ....................................................................... 46
       Upwards .............................................................................. 46
       Less but more regular in southern Europe ......................... 53
       Elderly parents ‘net receivers’ ............................................. 57
   5.2. Financial support ............................................................. 57
       Downwards ........................................................................ 57
       Older adults ‘net givers’ ..................................................... 59
       Reasons ............................................................................ 61
   5.3. Looking after grandchildren .............................................. 61
       More often, but less formal in northern Europe .................. 61
   5.4. Support given to and received from parents ..................... 64
       Clear age and gender differences ...................................... 64
       Necessity increases support .............................................. 64
       Matthew effect .................................................................. 64
       Other personal differentials .............................................. 65
       Crowding in ...................................................................... 66
       Main preconditions: geographical proximity and contact frequency ........................................................................ 66
       Between-country differences ............................................ 67
6. Typology of late-life families
   Introduction ................................................................. 69
   Four types of late-life families ........................................ 71
   Differentials by parent and child characteristics .................... 75
   Between-country differences ........................................... 79

7. Conclusion and discussion .................................................. 81
   7.1. Introduction .............................................................. 81
   7.2. Summary of findings .................................................... 82
      Intergenerational solidarity alive and well ......................... 82
      Differentials at the individual level .................................. 83
      Between-country differences .......................................... 87
   7.3. Limitations and suggestions for further research .................. 89

References ................................................................................. 93

Appendix Measurement of the independent variables ....................... 103

List of NIDI reports .................................................................. 113