Ludwig W. Fliesser

Governance of the Ilisu Dam Project

Tectum Verlag
5.3 The Ilisu Consortium
The Enmeshment between the Ilisu Consortium, the Project Owner and the Consultant Company ENCON
5.4 The Export Credit Agencies
Purpose of the Export Credit Agencies
Incentives for the Official Support of Exports
Effects of ECAs’ Global Competition
Governance of the Official Support for Export Credits on the Austrian National Level
The Role of Parliament in Decision Making on Official Support for Export Credits for the Ilisu Project in Austria
5.5 The Transnational Advocacy Network against the Ilisu Dam Project
General Characteristics of Networks
The Role of Transnational Advocacy Networks in Governance
The Transnational Campaign against the Ilisu Dam
Tactics used in the Stop-Ilisu Campaign
Reasons for the Success of the Stop-Ilisu Dam Campaign
6. International Institutions affecting the Governance of the Ilisu Project
Sovereign Statehood:
International Institution Par Excellence
International Laws to Protect Human Rights
Regulations for the Utilization of International Water Courses
The Safeguard Policies of the World Bank
The OECD Common Approaches
Ad Hoc Regulation: The Agreed Minutes of the Final Assessment Meeting ............................................. 112

7. The Ilisu Project Benchmarked Against the World Bank’s Safeguard Policies for Resettlement OP / BP 4.12 ................................................................. 115

   The Aim of the WB Policies for Involuntary Resettlement ..... 115
   ECAs’ Appraisal of the Project Benchmarked against OP / BP 4.12 .................................................. 117
   The Gap between Turkish Expropriation Laws and the Standards of the World Bank .......................... 123
   Implementation Phase of the Ilisu Project: 2007 to 2009 ...... 124
   Expropriation of Lands for “New Hasankeyf” .................... 128
   Conclusions about Compliance with World Bank Standards .................................................................. 134

8. Legitimacy of the Ilisu Project ................................................. 137

   Some Reflections on Legitimacy and Representative Democracy ...................................................... 137
   Rational Discourse as a Source of Legitimacy ................................................................................. 138
   The Rationale for the Ilisu Project ................................................................................................. 139
   Stakeholders’ unequal access to the discourse on the Ilisu Project .................................................. 145
   Accountability in the Governance of the Ilisu Project ................................................................. 146
   Consequences of the Legitimation Deficit of the Ilisu Project ....................................................... 148

9. Conclusions ................................................................. 151