
Trading Tools and Tactics

Reading the Mind of the Market

GREG CAPRA

WILEY

John Wiley & Sons, Inc.

Contents

	Introduction: The Journey Begins	xi
CHAPTER 1	Subjective Doesn't Work in the Market: Technical Analysis Is the Objective Standard	1
	The Guru Syndrome	1
	The Pitfalls of Fundamental Analysis	2
	Technical Indicators: Adding Subjectivity to the Chart	5
	Approaching the Markets Objectively	8
	In Summary	14
CHAPTER 2	Candlestick Analysis: Using the Language of Candles to Profit from Market Moves	17
	A Single Candle	18
	Multiple Candle Formations	21
	Failure Is Not Always Bad	29
	In Summary	31
CHAPTER 3	Support and Resistance: Price Is King	33
	Price Patterns	33
	Recognizing Reference Points	36
	The Two Forms of Support and Resistance: Major and Minor	40
	How Support and Resistance Areas Form	46
	In Summary	56
CHAPTER 4	Moving Averages the Right Way: Visual Aids to Price Action	57
	A Valuable Technical Measurement	57
	Convergence Can Help	63
	Moving Averages as Focal Areas	67

	Staying Objective	69
	A Few Good Rules While Using Moving Averages	74
	Other Points to Consider	75
	Moving Averages to Find Plays	78
	In Summary	79
CHAPTER 5	Volume Is Money: Commitment to Prices	81
	The Fallacies of Volume	81
	Using Volume Properly	85
	The Primary Uses of Volume	87
	Volume As It Relates to Tradability	98
	In Summary	101
CHAPTER 6	Retracement Analysis: Using Retracement Analysis to Continue Your Move	103
	The Concept of Retracements	103
	To Retrace or Not to Retrace?	106
	Retracements Imply a Trend	107
	Continuing To Keep It Objective	111
	What Lies Beyond 60 Percent?	111
	Retracement Levels in Downtrends	114
	A Special Retracement Pattern	115
	Retracement Levels in Sideways Trends	117
	What Lies Beyond 100 Percent?	118
	The Bigger Picture	121
	In Summary	123
CHAPTER 7	Bar-by-Bar Analysis: Each Bar Tells Us Something	125
	Objectivity Is Still the Goal	126
	A Quick Review of Individual Bars	126
	How the Bars Interact	128
	Additional Thoughts	135
	In Summary	137
CHAPTER 8	Market Internals: Examining the Direction of the Market	139
	Determining Price Movement	141
	When to Be Different	143

	Favorite Market Internals	143
	A Quick Overview of Intermarket Analysis	157
	In Summary	158
CHAPTER 9	Relative Strength: Relative Strength Defined	159
	Identifying Different Types of Relative Strength	160
	Is Relative Strength Always Good?	166
	Relative Strength and Weakness
	with Morning Gaps	170
	Relative Strength with Sector Analysis	172
	Relative Strength to Market Internals	173
	In Summary	174
CHAPTER 10	The Trend Is Your Friend: There Are Only Three Directions	177
	What Makes a Trend?	178
	Pivots	178
	When Pivots Come Together	182
	Some Subjective Guidance	186
	Keeping It Clean	188
	Checking the Reaction	192
	Final Thoughts	198
	In Summary	200
CHAPTER 11	Shoot the Gap: What Is a Gap?	203
	What Causes a Gap?	206
	Fallacies about Gaps	207
	Gaps and the Daily Chart	209
	The Intraday Play	214
	In Summary	219
CHAPTER 12	Frame-by-Frame: The Concept of Multiple Time Frames	221
	Which Time Frames?	221
	The First Goal of Using Multiple Time Frames	223
	A Powerful Concept Emerges	228
	Warning Signs in the Micro Trend	230
	Hidden Patterns	233
	In Summary	236

CHAPTER 13	Making Failure Work for You: Recognizing When Patterns Fail	239
	Did the Play Stop, or Did the Pattern Fail? When Good Patterns Fail	241
	Capitalizing on Predictable Failures Expected (or Unexpected) Failure	246
	In Summary	250
CHAPTER 14	Manage the Trade and the Money: The Missing Link	253
	Managing the Money—Share Size	253
	How Much to Risk	257
	Managing the Money—Throughout the Day	259
	Considerations When Swing Trading	260
	Basic Trade Management Concepts	262
	Managing the Trade—Staying with the Trend	264
	Managing the Trade—Zooming Down	265
	In Summary	267
CHAPTER 15	Getting Through a Typical Trading Day: Strategies to Incorporate into Your Daily Routine	271
	Beginning Your Day	271
	Planning Your Trade, Trading Your Plan After the Close	273
	Maximizing the Winners, and Handling the Losers Properly	277
CHAPTER 16	There Is Only One Truth in the Markets	279
	Price Is King	279
	Appendix A: Abbreviations	283
	Appendix B: Trade Types	285
	Glossary	287
	About the Companion Website	299
	Index	301