

The Political Economy of European Welfare Capitalism

Colin Hay and
Daniel Wincott

B 382225

palgrave
macmillan

Contents

List of Illustrative Material	ix
Foreword by Helen Wallace	xii
Acknowledgements	xiv
Introduction	1
1 European Welfare Capitalism in Good Times and Bad	8
The 'golden age'	10
Welfare state development in central and eastern Europe after 1945	13
Was 1945 a turning point?	15
'Within period' change	22
Ending the 'golden age'? The 'crisis' of the 1970s and its legacy	25
Central and eastern Europe after 1989	28
Europe after the golden age	29
Conclusion	31
2 Varieties of European Welfare Capitalism	33
Introduction	33
Worlds of welfare capitalism	34
Varieties of welfare capitalism	45
Dimensions of welfare statehood	48
Three regime-clusters or more?	62
Conclusion	64
3 Globalisation, Europeanisation and the Welfare State	66
Globalisation and welfare retrenchment: a question of semantics	67
Globalisation against the welfare state: the 'incommensurability' thesis	69
Globalisation: an assessment of the evidence	74
Reassessing the globalisation orthodoxy: the implications for the welfare state	90
Conclusion	95

4	Competitiveness and the Welfare State	97
	Introduction	97
	Retrenchment re-assessed	98
	The scope and scale of welfare expenditure: the aggregate evidence	99
	Relativising retrenchment	105
	Reassessing the conventional wisdom: a competitive audit of the welfare state	114
	Conclusion	129
5	European Integration and Welfare Capitalism	131
	Tracing market liberal bias in European integration	135
	The 1990s: eastern enlargement, the ESM and EMU	144
	Conclusion	159
6	Convergence and Divergence in European Welfare Capitalism	164
	The concept of convergence	165
	Types of convergence	170
	Convergence in and of what?	171
	The real worlds of welfare convergence, divergence and continued diversity	175
	Conclusion	192
7	European Welfare Capitalism in Hard Times	194
	The global financial crisis: an exogenous shock or an endogenous pathology?	196
	Endogenous and exogenous factors in the unfolding and transmission of the crisis	203
	The bursting of the bubble and the transmission of the crisis	207
	The consequences for the welfare state in Europe	216
	Conclusion	222
	Bibliography	227
	Index	257