

FIGHTING FOR RELIABLE EVIDENCE

Judith M. Gueron and
Howard Rolston

Russell Sage Foundation • New York

CONTENTS

	Tables and Figures	vii
	About the Authors	ix
	Preface	xi
	Acknowledgments and Dedication	xv
Chapter 1	Introduction: The Issue, the Method, and the Story in Brief	1
Chapter 2	They Said It Couldn't Be Done: The National Supported Work Demonstration	22
Chapter 3	Bridge to the 1980s: Implementing Random Assignment in Work Incentive Program Offices and Testing a Job Guarantee	66
Chapter 4	Inventing a New Paradigm: The States as Laboratories	88
Chapter 5	The Reagan Revolution and Research Capacity Within the Department of Health and Human Services: From Near Destruction to New Growth	141
Chapter 6	The Work/Welfare Demonstration: Lessons About Programs, Research, and Dissemination	181
Chapter 7	Waiver Evaluations: How Random Assignment Evaluation Came to Be the Standard for Approval	217
Chapter 8	Expanding the Agenda: The Role of Basic Education	262

Chapter 9	The JOBS Evaluation: Cumulative Evidence on Basic Education Versus Work First	311
Chapter 10	Expanding the Agenda II: Three Experiments to Make Work Pay	354
Chapter 11	The End of Our Story: Welfare Reform Recedes from the Spotlight of Random Assignment Program Evaluation	388
Chapter 12	Conclusion and Lessons	423
Coda	Random Assignment Takes Center Stage	455
	Appendix	473
	Abbreviations	479
	Notes	481
	Note on Sources	537
	References	539
	Index	553