

Lonely Ideas

Can Russia Compete?

Loren Graham

The MIT Press
Cambridge, Massachusetts
London, England

Contents

Introduction ix

I The Problem: Why Can't Russia, after Three Centuries of Trying, Modernize? 1

- 1 The Early Arms Industry: Early Achievement, Later Slump 3
- 2 Railroads: Promise and Distortion 17
- 3 The Electrical Industry: Failed Inventors of the Nineteenth Century 27
- 4 Aviation: A Frustrated Master, a Deformed Industry 41
- 5 Soviet Industrialization: The Myth That It Was Modernization 47
- 6 The Semiconductor Industry: Unheralded and Unrewarded Russian Pioneers 61
- 7 Genetics and Biotechnology: The Missed Revolution 69
- 8 Computers: Victory and Failure 75
- 9 Lasers: Genius and Missed Opportunities 81
- 10 The Exceptions and What They Prove: Software, Space, Nuclear Power 91

II What Are the Causes of the Problem? 99

- 11 The Attitudinal Question 103
- 12 The Political Order 109
- 13 Social Barriers 113
- 14 The Legal System 119
- 15 Economic Factors 127
- 16 Corruption and Crime 131
- 17 The Organization of Education and Research 135

III Can Russia Overcome Its Problem Today? Russia's Unique Opportunity	143
18 Creating New Foundations and Research Universities	145
19 RUSNANO (Nanotechnology) and Skolkovo (a New Technology City)	149
20 How Russia Could Break Out of Its Three-Centuries-Old Trap	161
Acknowledgments	165
Chronology	169
Notes	173
Glossary of Names	191
Index	195