The Emotional Shopper: Assessing the Effectiveness of Retail Therapy

Leonard Lee
National University of Singapore (NUS),
NUS Business School, BIZ 1, 8–20,
Mochtar Riady Building,
15 Kent Ridge Drive,
Singapore 119245,
leondard.lee@nus.edu.sg
Contents

1 Introduction

2 Retail Therapy — Conceptual Foundations
   2.1 Definitions and conceptualizations
   2.2 Measurement scales for retail therapy
   2.3 Other related constructs
   2.4 Summary

3 Of Moods and Motivations: Assessing Retail Therapy Effectiveness from a Motivational Perspective
   3.1 Shopping goals and motivation — existing taxonomies
   3.2 The role of shopping motives in mood elevation
   3.3 Summary

4 While You Are Shopping: Assessing Retail Therapy Effectiveness from a Behavioral Perspective
   4.1 Mapping the stages of the shopping process
   4.2 Summary

5 Fleeting Feelings: Assessing Retail Therapy Effectiveness from an Emotional Perspective
   5.1 Affective drivers and consequences of shopping

ix