

The Economics of Nationalism in Central and Eastern Europe:
A Historical Perspective

DISSERTATION

zur Erlangung des akademischen Grades
doctor rerum politicarum
(Doktor der Wirtschaftswissenschaft)

eingereicht an der

Wirtschaftswissenschaftlichen Fakultät
der Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin

von

Dipl.-Volksw. Marvin Süße

Präsident der Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin:

Prof. Dr. Jan-Hendrik Olbertz

Dekan der Wirtschaftswissenschaftlichen Fakultät:

Prof. Dr. Ulrich Kamecke

Gutachter:

1. Prof. Dr. Nikolaus Wolf
2. Prof. Mark Harrison, DPhil

Contents

1	Introduction	2
1.1	The Contemporary Importance of Nationalism	2
1.2	Definition	3
1.3	Literature Review	4
1.4	Method and Focus of Research	7
1.5	Outline	8
2	Economic Origins of Nationalism	10
2.1	Introduction	10
2.2	Theoretical Model	15
2.2.1	Clubs and the Cost of Capital	16
2.2.2	The Shift to Capital-Intensive Production	19
2.2.3	Segregation	20
2.2.4	Nationalism	22
2.2.5	Segregation and Nationalism with Economic Inequality	24
2.2.6	Summary of Model Predictions	26
2.3	Historical Evidence	26
2.4	Data and Empirical Strategy	33
2.4.1	Prussia's Eastern Provinces	34
2.4.2	Data	37
2.4.3	Empirical Specification	43
2.5	Econometric Evidence	48
2.5.1	Results I: Relative Prices and Co-op Growth	48

2.5.2	Results II: Segregation of Cooperatives	63
2.5.3	Results III: Nationalism and the Cost of Capital	70
2.6	Conclusions and Implications	74
3	Determinants of Secessions	78
3.1	Introduction	78
3.2	Economic Theories of State Break-up	82
3.3	Historical Background	85
3.3.1	Soviet Federal Structure and Ethnicity	85
3.3.2	Protests and Repression	88
3.4	Data and Variables	90
3.4.1	Dependent Variables: Separatism	90
3.4.2	Independent variables	95
3.5	Method	104
3.5.1	Protest Specifications	104
3.5.2	Modeling Separatism by Elites	107
3.5.3	Instrumental Variable Estimation	109
3.6	Results	111
3.6.1	Determinants of Separatist Protests	111
3.6.2	Determinants of Separatist Policy	116
3.6.3	Instrumenting for Protests	120
3.7	Conclusion and Implications	126
4	Nationalism and Trade Disintegration	128
4.1	Introduction	128
4.2	Local Institutions and Internal Trade in the USSR	131
4.3	A Game Theoretic Model of Soviet Trade	136
4.4	Empirical Strategy and Data	142
4.4.1	Basic Specification	142
4.4.2	Data	143
4.4.3	An Instrument for Secessions	148
4.5	Results	150
4.5.1	Secessionism and Trade: OLS	150

4.5.2 Secessionism and Trade: 2SLS	152
4.5.3 Trade Disintegration and Growth Decline	158
4.6 Conclusion	163
5 General Conclusions	166
A Appendix to Chapter 2	170
A.1 Mathematical Appendix	171
A.2 Maps	176
A.3 Figures	178
A.4 Summary Statistics	184
A.5 Robustness Checks and Additional Results	188
B Appendix to Chapter 3	198
B.1 Maps	199
B.2 Summary Statistics	204
B.3 Robustness Checks and Additional Results	206
C Appendix to Chapter 4	216
C.1 Figures	217
C.2 Summary Statistics and Tables	218
C.3 Robustness Checks and Additional Results	220