Contents

1 Introduction: Why a Historical Approach? 1

2 A Tale of Three Victorian Cities: Exploring Local Case Studies 25

3 Key Concepts from the Literature 51

4 Geology and Cities 83

5 Wars, Epidemics and Early Housing Policy: The Long-Run Effects of Temporary Disturbances 111

6 Speculation, Sub-division, Banking Fraud and Enlightened Self-interest: The Making of the Contemporary Glasgow Housing System 137

7 Building Our Way Out of Trouble 165
Contents

8 Residential Density Revisited: Sorting and Household Mobility 191

9 Path Dependence, the Spatial Distribution of Immigrant Communities and the Demand for Housing 217

10 Affordability and the Rise and Fall of Home Ownership 243

11 On the Persistence of Poverty and Segregation 275

12 Final Reflections 297

Index 303