

Thema

Public Spending and its Relation to Redistributive
Preferences and Highly Skilled Migration

Dissertation

zur Erlangung des akademischen Grades
doctor rerum politicarum
(Dr. rer. pol.)

vorgelegt dem
Rat der Wirtschaftswissenschaftlichen Fakultät
der Friedrich–Schiller–Universität Jena

von: Dipl. Kffr. Tina Hauben

Contents

	Page
List of Figures	vii
List of Tables	x
List of Abbreviations	xi
Acknowledgements	xii
Co-Authorship and Statement of Contribution	xiii
German Summary	xiv
Chapter 1 Income Redistribution: Determinants and Consequences	1
1.1 Introductory Remarks	1
1.2 Distortionary Effects of Income Redistribution	4
1.3 Individual Preferences for Income Redistribution . . .	8
1.3.1 Determinants of Preferences for Income Redistribution	8
1.3.2 Research Gaps: Inter- and Intra-Household Income Inequality	13
1.4 Income Redistribution and Subsidies for Higher Education	16
1.4.1 Rationales of Subsidising Higher Education . .	16
1.4.2 Research Gaps: Mobile Students and Graduates and Public Higher Education Funding . .	20
1.5 Structure and Findings of this Thesis	23

Part I

Inter- and Intra-Household Income Inequality and Preferences for Redistribution

26

Chapter 2

Inter-Household Income Inequality and Preferences for Redistribution

27

2.1

Introductory Remarks

28

2.2

The Redistributive Impact of the Tax and Transfer System in Germany

30

2.3

Data and Descriptive Statistics

34

2.3.1

Dependent Variables

34

2.3.2

Main Explanatory Variables

37

2.3.3

Further Explanatory Variables

42

2.4

Empirical Strategy

43

2.5

Estimation Results

45

2.5.1

Effect Size Differences Between Total Household Income and Equivalent Income

46

2.5.2

The Relative Importance of Equivalent Income for Redistributive Preferences

51

2.6

Concluding Remarks

55

2.A

Appendix

57

Chapter 3

Intra-Household Income Inequality and Preferences for Redistribution

65

3.1

Introductory Remarks

66

3.2

Data and Descriptive Statistics

69

3.2.1

Dependent Variables

69

3.2.2

Main Explanatory Variables

70

3.2.3

Further Explanatory Variables

73

3.3

Empirical Strategy

75

3.4

Estimation Results

77

3.4.1

Baseline Results

77

3.4.2

Poorer and Richer Partners

80

3.4.3

Robustness Checks

86

3.4.4

Future Prospects

89

3.5

Concluding Remarks

95

3.A

Appendix

97

Chapter 4	So What? Concluding Remarks and Implications for Policy and Research	99
4.1	Implications for Policy	101
4.2	Implications and Ideas for Research	105
Part II	Financing of Higher Education with Mobile Students and Graduates	109
Chapter 5	Migration Behaviour and Job Changes of Graduates in Germany	110
5.1	Introductory Remarks	111
5.2	Data	114
5.3	Job Changes and Migration Patterns of Graduates in Germany	116
5.3.1	School, University, and Labour Market Entry .	116
5.3.2	University and Job(s) Five Years After Graduation	119
5.3.3	Job Changes Within Five Years After Graduation	122
5.4	Determinants of Job Change Related Migration . . .	125
5.4.1	Dependent Variables	125
5.4.2	Explanatory Variables	126
5.5	Empirical Strategy	129
5.5.1	Multinomial Logit Model	130
5.5.2	Heckman Selection Model	131
5.5.3	Fixed-Effects Model	133
5.6	Results	134
5.6.1	Migration For the First Job	134
5.6.2	Migration After the First Job	137
5.6.3	Heckman Selection Model	140
5.6.4	Fixed-Effects model	145
5.7	Concluding Remarks	150
5.A	Appendix	152
Chapter 6	Student and Graduate Migration and its Effect on the Financing of Higher Education	160
6.1	Introductory Remarks	161
6.2	Related Empirical Literature	163

6.3	Data	165
6.3.1	Expenditure on Higher Education	165
6.3.2	Student Immigration	166
6.3.3	Further Data	168
6.4	Empirical Strategy	170
6.5	Results	171
6.5.1	Benchmark Regressions	171
6.5.2	Robustness Checks	174
6.6	Endogeneity Issues	179
6.6.1	Reverse Causality	179
6.6.2	Omitted Variable Bias	184
6.7	Concluding Remarks	186
6.A	Appendix	188
Chapter 7	So What? Concluding Remarks and Implications for Policy and Research	190
7.1	Implications for Policy	190
7.1.1	Dividing the Financial Burden: Public Side . .	192
7.1.2	Dividing the Financial Burden: Public and Private Side	194
7.2	Implications and Ideas for Research	196
Chapter 8	Conclusion	199
	Bibliography	201
	Statutory Declaration	222
	Presentations and Publications	223