

POPULATION AGEING AND AUSTRALIA'S FUTURE

EDITED BY HAL KENDIG, PETER McDONALD AND JOHN PIGGOTT

Australian
National University

PRESS

Contents

Foreword	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
Contributors	xiii

Part 1. Perspectives on ageing

1. Introduction: A multidisciplinary approach to ageing	3
Hal Kendig, Peter McDonald and John Piggott
2. Ageing and social change in Australia.	19
Cathy Gong and Hal Kendig
3. Population ageing in Australia—National policy challenges and future directions	47
John Piggott

Part 2. Population ageing: Global, regional and Australian perspectives

4. Ageing in Australia: Population changes and responses	65
Peter McDonald
5. Declining fertility and the rising costs of children and the elderly in Japan and other selected Asian countries: An analysis based upon the NTA approach	85
Naohiro Ogawa, Rikiya Matsukura and Sang-Hyop Lee
6. Facing the challenges of an ageing society.	111
Jan Pakulski

Part 3. Improving health and wellbeing

7. Social research and actions on ageing well.	137
Hal Kendig and Colette Browning
8. Enhancing cognitive capacities over the life-span	165
Kaarin J Anstey

9.	Social engagement in late life	185
	Tim D Windsor, Rachel G Curtis and Mary A Luszcz
10.	Wellbeing and its improvability as a national goal	205
	Richard A Burns and Colette Browning

Part 4. Responses by government and families/individuals

11.	Retirement income strategies for an ageing population.	233
	Hazel Bateman
12.	Ageing, entitlement and funding health care	261
	Jane Hall and Kees van Gool
13.	Financing aged care: The role of housing wealth and intergenerational relationships	281
	Rachel Ong
14.	Conclusions: An historic triumph that presents big challenges for public policy	303
	Andrew Podger

Appendix 1: International perspectives and global benchmarking . . .	313
Hal Kendig and Lisa Cannon	